ITALIANS HOPE FOR PEACE AS OFFICIALS MEET

Government Meets Today for Study of "Important Measures"; Vatican Busy.

By The Associated Press

BERN, SWITZERLAND, Aug. 5 —An announcement that the Italian government would meet today to consider "important measures" apparently raised the hopes of the Italian people that steps would be taken to remove them from the war.

Associated Press dispatches from London said the British looked for the meeting to bring an answer to the Italian people's plea for peace and Germany's demands that Italy stay in the war.)

A National Broadcasting Company correspondent in Bern reported the Italian Foreign Minister Raffaele Guariglia had drafted peace proposals containing among other conditions that no Allied troops come into the country except for control purposes and that the peninsula be "neutralized." Guariglia's proposal was said to be up for consideration at today's cabinet meeting.)

Report Desperation Grows

A Swiss correspondent in Milan said an air of desperation had settled on the Italian people and signs were scribbled on walls at night reading:

"Death to Badoglio and the King."

"We Want Peace and Work."

"The Germans Must Get Out of Italy."

Cardinal Maglione, papal secretary of state, meanwhile convoked an extraordinary session of the 16 cardinals now in Rome for the apparent purpose, said the Corriere Della Sera of Milan, of discussing questions connected with the international situation.

At the same time a constant stream of ambassadors, ministers, apostolic nuncios and other diplomats was reported flowing in and out of the foreign office in Rome, lending credence to the belief that some important development was in the offing.

The Lavora Italiano, taking a different tack than that of the past two days, when the press on orders from Premier Badoglio warned the Italian people that "the war must go on," today declared the sessions of the British cabinet held last Tuesday "have been interpreted in many capitals as a prelude to an eventual armistice."

Cites Dangerous Situation

The newspaper said the position of Italy and her allies was "very fluid and very dangerous" in a moment when "the voices of the diplomats should be raised."

The Corriere Della Sera declared that thoughts of liberty and war dominated Italian minds today, adding that "many have awaited, during these unforgettable days, clearer words, and so are able to receive without excessive fear and without shame the thought of coming peace."

There was little news of disturbances in Italy early today, but reports from frontier towns said that half-hour strikes were continuing in Milan and in factories in other industrial cities in northern Italy as a protest against the government's insistence that the war must be continued.

Five States To Ask OPA for Milk Price Increase

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5—Representatives of milk producers and dealers in five states today prepared to appeal to the national office of price administration for an increase in milk prices.

Producers from Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and Michigan decided to present their case appeal to Washington after Ernest Kuhn, regional OPA price executive, informed them present ceilings did not include over-all adjustments.

Milk price increases are imperative if the production of milk is to be maintained at the present level, J. Schafer of Akron, president of the Ohio Milk Producers federation, told the meeting yesterday.

Schafer said area representatives also would ask OPA officials to approve milk rationing or subsidies.

9 DROWNED IN FLASH FLOOD

At Least 7 Others Hunted in West Virginia; Ohio Hit by Floods.

By The Associated Press

SUTTON, W. Va., Aug. 5 — Nine persons were drowned and at least seven others were missing today in a raging flash flood that swept through central West Virginia, trapping many persons in their homes as they slept.

State Police Sgt. L. L. Waugh reported the bodies of Mrs. Lydia Queen, 38, and three of her children, Martin 12, Robert 10, and Alma, one year old, had been recovered from O'Brien Fork creek at Heaters, 10 miles from Sutton.

Two other Queen children, Phyllis 8 and Peggy 2, had not been accounted for.

Waugh said he was informed by telephone that five bodies had been recovered at Copen, 20 miles from Sutton.

Town Under Water

Waugh reported that Burnsville, a Braxton county town of 851 inhabitants, was "entirely under water" and that hardly a single house had escaped inundation. No deaths were reported there.

The entire 10 miles of Baltimore and Ohio railroad track from Heaters to Burnsville had been washed out.

J. Holt Byrne, publisher of the Braxton Central at Sutton, said that among those missing in the Heaters area were Mrs. Tom Daugherty, about 50, who was

NAZIS STRENGTHEN NORTHERN ITALY

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 5—Travelers who left Rome three days ago estimated today that Germany now has approximately 15 to 18 divisions (between 225,000 and 270,000 men) in northern Italy and is moving with incredible speed to increase this concentration of military strength north of the Po river.

Although American bombers recently left the railroad yards at Bologna in a shambles, the travelers said, Nazi military engineers quickly restored traffic on the main lines to expedite movement of German troops to strategic centers.

Throughout northern Italy, where the Nazis are feverishly constructing defenses in depth throughout the Po valley, eyewitnesses said they noted strong anti-German feeling expressed in signs, chalked on walls, many of which read, "Germans, get out!"

ICKES AT MEETING ON MIDWEST GAS RATION

Attends Conference On Whether Allowance Should Be Cut.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 5—Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes and top members of his staff came to Chicago today for a session with a group of congressmen on the question of whether the midwest and southwest should have less gasoline.

One member of an unofficial midwest congressional rationing committe from each of 32 midcontinent states was summoned for the meeting by the chairman, Rep. Clarence J. Brown, Republican of Ohio.

Ickes notified the committee last week that changes in gasoline rationing were in Prospect.

Russians Drive Nazis Out Of Orel, Smash at Retreating Foe

Soviet Pincers Action Results in German Evacuation of Key Fortification on Southern Front.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Aug. 5—The Red army battled its way through the streets of Orel today, completing occupation of the first great city to be wrested from the Germans in the summer campaign.

The Germans offered stubborn resistance, throwing tanks into bitter street fighting, but the action appeared to be only a rear-guard defense rather than a serious effort to challenge the Russians for possession of the key fortified city.

Red army infantry storming down from the hills east of Orel swept across the Oka river and were reported mopping up the enemy's rear-guards block by block.

Frontline dispatches said the Germans still were offering bitter resistance northwest and southwest of Orel in an effort to cover the retreat of the main body of their troops through the bottleneck to the west.

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star declared the Nazis had stepped up their rearline firepower in those areas, virtually doubling the number of guns for each mile of the front, and were counter-attacking with groups of 15 to 25 tanks.

Soviet Planes Busy

Soviet bombers, however, were reported blasting at the enemy's support lines and main bases behind the Orel salient, concentrating on the communications center of Bryansk, Nikitovka, Yasinovataya and Ilovaiskaya behind the Kharkov front and MGA on the Leningrad front also were subjected to heavy air attack.

(The Berlin radio announced last night Nazi forces had evacuated Orel. Describing the retreat as an "evacuation according to plan," the announcement said German forces had taken up previously-prepared positions behind the city after destroying everything of value.)

The Russian announcement that the city's inner defenses had cracked after 24 days of savage fighting, during which Soviet armored units, infantry and cavalry stormed them from three directions, listed vast stores of ammunition and guns as captured.

More than 2,500 Germans were killed and 18 enemy tanks were knocked out as the Germans fought bitterly and even counter-attacked in desperate attempts to check the Red army masses pouring into the city's streets, a Soviet communique said.

Strongly Fortified

Orel, which had a normal population of 91,000, had been fortified extensively ith the hedgehog system of defense since it was occupied by the German army on Oct. 8, 1941. It is the hinge and key defense position of the long south-central German line extending to the Sea of Azov, and its recapture would reopen vital railway lines linking the Ukraine with Moscow.

(The Berlin radio's announcement did not state the extent of the German withdrawal, but the next position of importance is Bryansk, 80 miles to the west. The Germans had only one remaining rail link between Orel and Bryansk, and the Russian column advancing from the north already had been reported within five miles of that line, holding it well within artillery range.)

The Russians also reported new successes at Belgorod, 165 miles south of Orel, where they said they smashed ahead for gains up to six miles and improved their positions.

(In London, it was generally believed Orel's fall would have an immediate and far-reaching effect on German morale, which has already suffered this summer from allied victories in Sicily, the Italian crisis, and intensified allied aerial attacks on German industrial cities.)

SLOW GAINS AT MUNDA FOR U.S.

Violent Battle Rages at Close Range for Possession of Island Air Strip.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 5 — United States infantrymen fought at close grips today with Japanese on the south fringe of the Munda airfield opposite its center after breaking through a long, covered trench.

The battle for possession of the New Georgia island air strip, which long since has ceased to serve Japanese planes but which in American hands would pose an aerial threat at enemy bases in the northern Solomons and on New Britain, was a slow-moving and violent one.

The jungle-fringed airdrome runs roughly east and west. The infantrymen now near its center came in from the east along the coast. Across the strip from them and about a mile north of the airdrome, other Americans strove to rout the Japanese from the western slope of Bibolo hill preparatory to moving against the field.

Seek To Block Escape

(A naval spokesman at headquarters of Admiral William F. Halsey Jr.'s command in the South Pacific said that capture of Bibolo and Kokengolo hills was expected momentarily. He added that a drive past these positions would put the American forces on the sea coast behind Japanese lines, thus pinning the defenders within a small area and cutting off all routes of escape.)

Along the coast on the western end of the field, many of the Japanese were frightened from their foxholes into the nearby reef-studded waters by swarms of fighter-escorted bombers which dropped 45 tons of high explosives Wednesday.

U. S. Planes Active

Navy Corsairs saw to it that no aid for the tottering Munda garrison should be forthcoming from the north. They tore into the enemy base on Shortland island below Bougainville, destroying seven float planes, three barges and a small cargo ship.

The Japanese airforce, which lost 345 planes trying to stem the Solomons offensive during the first month, starting June 30, sent 18 Zeros against American positions on Rendova island, below Munda. Thirteen were shot down. We lost two.

SHANGRI-LA GOAL TOPPED

$42,797 Sold in Bonds and Stamps During July; Auction Nets $16,453.

Marion's participation in the July nationwide drive to raise $130,000,000 for purchase of the aircraft carrier Shangri-La went over the goal by nearly $10,000, the Marion county war finance committee reported today.

Marion's quota in the month-long campaign was $33,000, and final tabulations revealed today that $42,797.75 worth of bonds and stamps were sold.

Of this total $16,453.25 was sold in the war bond and stamp auction last Friday night at the courthouse. A member of the county war finance committe boosted the auction totals by $500 earlier this week when he went to the Victory House on the courthouse esplanade to claim an item purchased at the auction. He paid the bid price and then purchased an additional $500 worth of bonds which he asked to be counted in the Shangri-La effort.

The month-long campaign was in charge of a committee of 12 young Marion men under the direction of Jerry Passen. Mr. Passen, assisted by Walter Axtheim and M. Hollingshead, were in charge of the auction sale.

EXPECT CHURCHILL, ROOSEVELT TO MEET

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 — A swift round of allied victories in Russia, Sicily and the air over Germany appears to have brought the war to a point where President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill must decide soon on the best strategy for shattering Hitler's European fortress.

In the past, decisions of such magnitude have been in personal conferences in Washington, or Casablanca, or aboard ship.

The present situation suggests that although the two leaders last met in Washington in May, they may find it necessary to confer again at an early date in order to give final shape to a victory campaign in Europe, weigh the prospects for an early victory and relate these prospects to the possibilities of speeding up the war in the Pacific.

Plans for Italy

News of Catania's fall, indicating the imminent collapse of all axis resistance in Sicily, was regarded here as posing the immediate problem of whether to follow the Sicilian conquest with an invasion of Italy or whether to soften up Premier Pietro Badoglio's strongholds by air first in hopes of forcing surrender without invasion.

Even more important ultimately is the question of whether to crush Germany by an aerial offensive alone or to employ a combined land-air strategy. If airpower is depended on to deliver the main punch, the invasion army may have but to smash the outer walls of the continental defenses in order to have the whole thing collapse. The high command, it seems, must decide whether air can do the job.

Such questions ordinarily are reserved for decision by the President and prime minister and their chiefs of staff for land, sea and air.

Never before in the war have the Anglo-American and their allied associates been compelled to deal with events so climatic or fast-moving.

Churchill himself posed the

U. S. Casualties In Sicily Hit 6,741 Up To July 22

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—American casualties in Sicily through July 22 totaled 6,741—501 killed, 3,870 wounded and 2,370 missing.

Secretary of War Stimson reported this today, observing:

"Considering the number of troops involved, these losses are considered moderate—particularly in view of the terrain in Sicily."

The secretary said he did not have the figures on British casualties for the same period, but they were "not a great deal higher." Casualties since July 22 were believed to be "relatively light."

The secretary told his press conference substantial gains had been made by allied forces in all theaters in the last week.

GERMAN EAST COAST LINE ALSO CRUMBLED IN QUICK ADVANCES

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 5 — British Eighth Army troops seized Catania at 2:30 a. m. Marion time today and swept around the base of Mt. Etna to the northwest, capturing Paterno, 10 miles away, to crumble the German line on the east coast of Sicily, headquarters announced.

Catania fell to the Eighth Army at 8:30 a. m. (2:30 a. m., Eastern war time) today, after a bitter defense since July 15, and the British pounded ahead in a lightning advance clockwise around the base of Mt. Etna.

Corps Believed Disheartened

The heart of the German army corps appeared to be broken.

Paterno is 10 miles northwest of Catania, and it was assumed that Misterbianco, three miles northwest of Catania, also had been engulfed.

German withdrawal of nonessential personnel from Sicily has been in progress for the last five or six days, it was learned authoritatively.

The German defense road around Mt. Etna was blasted apart by the British successes today and the next German line was expected to run from Taormina across the northeastern tip of the island to the seacoast on the northeast behind San Fratello, which already is menaced by U. S. Seventh Army troops.

This would mean abandonment of the whole Mt. Etna area by the axis.

The east coast stretch of road between Catania and Taormina was expected to be cleaned up by the Eighth Army with great speed.

The days of the enemy's resistance in Sicily were greatly shortened, but there is a possibility that a fair share of the German and Italian forces might be withdrawn in small boats across the two-mile-wide Messina strait.

Small Vessels Make Trip

Regardless of allied naval patrols and the continual hammering by allied war planes, small vessels can slip across this narrow channel with some success by avoiding regular harbors and using beaches.

The whole German left flank based on the heights of Mt. Etna was in grave danger from the British success achieved after terrific and incessant combat since the giant allied offensive on the entire Sicilian front began on Sunday.

Pressed back from the western edge of the Catania plain and smothered under a furious, massed artillery barrage that continued day and night, the German line around bomb and fire-scarred Catania broke early today.

Catania was taken despite strong enemy resistance, a special communique said.

Retreat Toward Messina

The allied advance continued all along the front, headquarters said, as American, Canadian and British troops drove the Germans back toward their last escape port of Messina, 55 miles north of Catania, and tremendous aerial and sea blows were hammered home in support of the great drive.

British warships rained shells upon the Taormna road and railway midway between Catania and Messina yesterday, giving that exposed communication center what was believed to be its heaviest bombardment yet.

American cruisers and destroyers ranging the northeast coast continued their day and night shelling of German positions ahead of the American Seventh Army troops swinging rapidly along the coast beyond San Stevano.

Air Action Intense

From the air, allied bombers and fighters swept over enemy communication centers and supply lines to disrupt the German defense. Flying Fortresses again smashed at docks and submarine bases at Naples, in the fourth raid in four days and the "target was well covered by bombs," an air communique reported. (The Italians admitted 159 killed and 228 injured by the raid).

The battle of Catania ended and the battle for Messina began, for all along the enemy's mountainous bridgehead British and American forces plunged forward for new gains.

The British by their continued bombardments of Taormina acted to paralyze if not cut the Germans' east coast supply — and retreat — route.

The enemy's line of retreat from Catania is a three-mile-wide corridor between the mountains and the sea and in that harsh, rugged strip there are a number of points where he might attempt a stand.

Catania's capture in effect turned the German flank on the east coast and the British surged ahead on the slopes of Mt. Etna facing the sea.

Official reports said Montgomery's triumph, as brilliant as any he achieved in Africa, was made at a relatively slight cost of his soldiers' lives.

Catania can be converted rapidly to allied use. The big port once accommodated 2,000 ships a year and liners of 50-foot draft entered there.

Front dispatches said American troops were making steady progress in the north.

An official report said relations between German and Italian troops were worsening. One Italian captured in Catania said he had been a sapper but was forced into the infantry for the final defense of the city during which "I

Richwood Club Buys Lake

28.8-Acre Site in Union County Bought by Fish and Game Group; Park To Be Established.

After waiting for four years, the Richwood Fish and Game club recently completed purchase of Lake Baccarat located near Richwood. The lake, formerly a gravel pit, has been the aim of the club for some time but the owners of the site, refused until recently to sell to anyone who wanted the place for a business proposition.

Finally, in February, it was announced that the grounds were available and the club with the support of all the community raised enough money to make the purchase.

The name Baccarat is taken from the name of the place where the Rainbow Division first saw service in France in World War I. The lake site takes in about 28.8 acres, which includes approximately 18 acres of water. The remaining 10 acres of ground will be developed into a park in the future.

The lake is spring fed and has an average depth of eight to 12 feet of clear water. It was stocked last spring with bluegills, crappies and bass and fishermen are already reporting nice catches.

T. P. Sieg, Richwood druggist, nursed the project through to the purchase and P. R. Adams, jeweler and sporting goods dealer, handled all all of the finances. George L. Stultz was president of the club and Frank Kirk, secretary at the time of the completed deal. Robert F. Allen, Richwood attorney, served without compensation and Ray Gill, state fire marshal also assisted.

Planes More Than Air Support in Sicilian Fighting

By The Associated Press

HEADQUARTERS OF THE AMERICAN SEVENTH ARMY IN SICILY, July 29 (Delayed)—Preinvasion bombing operations against Sicily proved of such substantial value to the ground troops that the expression "air support" has acquired an entirely new meaning, an officer of a famous western desert fighter force said today.

Here for conference with Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., commander of the American Seventh Army, and Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of the British Eighth Army, this officer who can not be named described the results attained in a long series of smashing raids against strategic cities, ports, rail yards, airfields and lines of communication as one of the greatest factors behind the allied successes to date.

The softening-up job done by the bombers was the "most thorough and complete in any battle theater at any time," he said.

The officer noted that the words "air support" has been applied in the past to assistance given the ground forces while battles were actually being fought. He said in view of the way the bombers snagged and crumpled resistance in Sicily ahead of the ground forces, that concept no longer holds.

The remarks have a particular significance inasmuch as Spitfires and Warhawks of this wing of the Mediterranean air command have been filling what normally was considered the support role since the hour of the initial landing.

Both this officer and Montgomery singled out the Flying Fortresses as having performed outstanding service producing the precise results desired.

"I know of no other plane that comes close to it in this respect," the officer said.

Germany Invades, Finds Russia Is Not Ready

CHAPTER 4

...ater in the year than ...n. Hitler invaded ...ne 22, 1941. Beyond that ...ey were to be com... ...e was little comparison ...e campaigns of the ...century French em... ...the twentieth-century ...perors. For Napoleon ...Moscow with a mo... by surprise. Despite all alarms and warnings, they were not ready. Unexpectedly, bombs showered down on Kiev, Sebastopol, Kaunas, Zhitomir, and other important cities of the rear. Shells rained on Brest-Litovsk, Belostok, and other towns on the frontier. Border posts were rapidly overwhelmed. So complete was the surprise that junior pilots rushed about their airports, seeking superior officers for orders to take off, while they themselves were being bombed. And many of the highest officers of the army and navy and officials of state were away from their posts on vacation.

The German invasion caught the Russians by surprise but behind the frontiers mobilization proceeded swiftly from the guerrillas defending their homesteads to the Red army itself.

...e autumn, turned around and ...rched back again. Hitler flung ...self in Russia with a huge ...ny stopped short of Moscow, ...ng on for a fight to the ...

When it began, that fateful ...day at 4 a. m., one hundred ...d seventy divisions, numbering ...re than two million men, with ...ee thousand tanks and ten thou...nd planes, were unleashed ...ainst the Soviet Union. With ...m, death and devastation ...lked onto the steppes of south...rn, the forests of western, the ...ndra of northern Russia.

The invasion caught the Soviets

IT WAS not until 5:30 a. m., one hour and a half after the invasion, that Graf von der Shulenburg called on Foreign Minister Molotov at the Kremlin to inform him that Germany had started war on the Soviet Union because of Red army concentrations opposite the German border. It was not until 12:15 p. m. that the Russian people heard, in a broadcast by Molotov, that they had been attacked without previous demands, without a declaration of war.

The confusion was complete. The Red army admitted June 23 the fall of Brest-Litovsk. It fell only the next day. A washerwoman, dropping her laundry and drying her hands when she saw the Germans, took a rifle, helped one border post stand off the enemy, then went back to a garrison and brought reinforcements. For a day that post held. The 99th Red army infantry division, commanded by Colonel Jacob Kreuzer, retreated from Przemysl, in Old Poland, then pushed back and recaptured the town. They held until ordered to withdraw. But all around them the Soviet frontiers fell.

Behind the frontier, loudspeakers blared orders: mobilization of men between twenty-three and thirty-six years old in the fourteen western military districts, air-raid and anti-gas precautions, a state of siege throughout European Russia. That night, as they had in all other cities of Europe, the lights of Russia were blacked out.

And so, all unwilling, Russia became Armageddon.

I had what seemed at first to be the very bad, but what tourned out to be the very good, luck to witness the outbreak of the war, not from Moscow, but from the peaceful, sunlit terrace of the Riviera Hotel at Sochi.

IT WAS a beautiful Sunday, warmed by the sun, freshly washed by the rain, after a tempest the previous day. The Black Sea dashed briskly against the breakwater and sent its waters rushing across the concrete walk. The war had been on for hours, but I had no premonition of it, as I sat on the hill above the beach and watched the waves.

A telegram had come for me that morning from Moscow, saying: 'Plane immediately.' Idly, I wondered what the reason for it was, personal or business. Witt Hancock, my predecessor in Moscow, had been planning vaguely to come through Moscow if he were ordered home from his post in Turkey. In that case I had left word I would return to Moscow to meet him. That, I decided, must be the reason for the telegram. I would go, of course, but there was no hurry. There was no plane anyway until the next day. But the reason for the telegram turned out to be business. Witt Hancock, instead of going home, went on to India and Batavia, there to be lost in Java. And I was going back to the war.

As I strolled back from the beach, through the garden, I saw a crowd gathered around the loudspeaker in front of the hotel. A flat emotionless voice was speaking. It was Molotov describing the attack without warning.

As he spoke, his audience listened silently, first in sheer amazement, then in stunned realization. One or two women wept quietly, and moved away, but most of them stood, as though in a trance, astonished, then resigned to the ghastly news. I headed upstairs to my room, and as I passed a maid on the stairs, she gasped:

'They attacked us!'

I felt worse than the Russians, for I was away from my post, and the greatest story of them all was breaking. All the ugly forecasts I had heard for Russia, in case of war, came to me: It would last three weeks to three months . . . the Germans might reach Moscow in five days . . . Moscow would be leveled by a single bombing. I might never get there in time.

THE REST of the day I spent in waiting for things that never came. I put in a telephone call for Moscow for 4 p. m. It never came. I was told a man would come with a ticket for Moscow on the next day's plane at 9 p. m. He never came. Then, I was told, all planes were grounded. I was stranded at the other end of Russia with no roads between me and Moscow, with no way of getting there except by train. And the last train for Moscow that day had left.

Tempers ran higher as the day went on. There were bickerings and stampedings about the hotel. But underneath it all there was a current of feeling of determination even of enthusiasm, about the war. Marching songs, blaring from loudspeakers, began to echo back from the mountains. The crowds grew larger and larger, listening to repeated broadcasts of Molotov's speech and successive news bulletins. Sometimes the people cheered and clapped.

That night the blackout was put into effect with surprising speed and efficiency. Blue bulbs appeared in the lights, dark curtains covered the windows, and a maid brought a candle to my room.

The next morning, Russia's second of war, I awoke with a start after a fitful night's sleep, and jumped out of bed to start working on a train ticket for Moscow.

I went into the railroad station office and made to an officer in Red army uniform what must have been a grotesquely eloquent speech in bad Russian. I told him I was an American correspondent, had been called the day before to return by plane, and, since there was no plane I must leave that day by the train. I produced my foreign commissariat pass, and said: "With this document I should think I might take the train today."

The officer nodded, and said, "You might."

The baggageman remained at the station, already filling up with anxious crowds, to buy the ticket, and I walked back to the hotel.

In the streets squads of men were marching in civilian clothes. Houses were being bulwarked. Troops passed in trucks. The town was emptying of all except women and children.

I could not help but compare this to the France I had seen less than a year before. There was no rush of refugees on the road. In fact, as I was still to find out, it was very difficult to move at all. There was no mass crisis of nerves: the war of nerves had never reached this remote, stolid people.

If the Russian people are ever defeated, I thought, it will not be because of nerves.

On the way to the hotel I asked a man what the morning's radio news had been.

"We are attacking," he said.

Pacific News Rolls Up

NEWSPAPERS are continually aware of the difficult problem of dividing news coverage equitably between the European and Pacific war areas.

Inevitably, the greater attention is drawn to the area with the greater activity, which at present is Europe. It is also inevitable that some injustice is done to the fighting men in the neglected area whenever this happens.

Our forces in the Pacific area, on land, in the air, on the sea and under the sea are fighting a war without precedent in hardship. For the most part, they are fighting the hard way, without benefit of association with more experienced troops, such as the British troops who have helped to season American forces in the European area.

Their crucial victories, which have changed the course of the war in the Pacific and have affected its course in Europe, have been gained under circumstances that robbed them of the comprehension which enables most Americans to follow the invasion of Sicily from day to day. The great naval victories, such as that at the battle of Midway, were too enormous for an ordinary landlubber to grasp. Expulsion of the Japanese from Attu and the preparation for final action at Kiska are bound to be overshadowed by such enormous operations as the bombing raids on German cities and the moves to encircle Germany.

But the Pacific news rolls up day by day; it is all in the record, and nearly all of it is good. When the time finally comes for the Japanese to get undivided attention—and it may come sooner, rather than later—the preparations all will have been sound. Ultimately, the tables will be balanced, because posterity will be more interested in America's first war with Japan than with its involvement in a second war with Germany.

Honest Confession

THE TREASURY'S bitter fight against income tax reform becomes even harder to understand in the light of President Roosevelt's declaration that revenue estimates have been revised upward more than two billion dollars since the new withholding tax went into effect a month ago. The government now expects $55,067,000,000, instead of $3,000,000,000 from this source.

Indeed, the President's whole tax philosophy, as expressed in his recent statement on budget prospects at the half-year mark, is an indorsement of the reform jammed through against the combined opposition of the treasury and the Democratic leadership in congress. The aim of taxation, he points out, is to take surplus spendable income out of the hands of consumers, to keep them from using it for inflation. "Individuals are expected to receive incomes approaching 150 billion dollars during fiscal year 1944, over twice the income payments to individuals in fiscal year 1940. Such a huge rise creates a tremendous increase in demands for goods and services," the President explains. "The cost of living cannot be stabilized unless price and wage controls are supported by a further substantial absorption of purchasing power as a deterrent to bidding up prices and resorting to the black market."

If the financial experts who are supposed to know what happens between a man and his money still don't comprehend the effect of the pay-as-you-go plan on free spenders, they had better take a day off to learn that if not only is bringing in the money but helping many consumers to lose their illusions about war boom wages. Every pay check is a fresh object lesson in the cost of war.

Apple Sellers

THEIR devotion to immediate action on a post-war welfare program for service men is causing some enthusiasts to get their current history garbled.

Contrary to the impression being carelessly spread, service men after World war I did not turn en masse to selling apples and standing in breadlines. President Roosevelt is the latest to contribute to this misrepresentation.

Some service men may have turned to selling apples after the other war. Some may turn to selling apples after this war. In some cases, it might even be their trade. But in 1919, service men did not sell apples in droves. That was to come 10 years later, after service men had been taken back into the civilian economy, except for the minority that preferred to follow a career of veteraneering.

Apple selling and breadline standing became national institutions in the great depression that government still was grabbling with when World war II dissolved mass unemployment in a new war boom.

There are enough complications in dealing with the question of a post-war welfare program for service men without adding historic misrepresentations. Veterans of World war I did not sell apples as middle-aged members of the unemployed because they were neglected after the war, but because the war created economic problems that the combined intelligence of all the governments then in existence couldn't solve.

News Behind the News

Mussolini's Exit Was Purely a Military and Diplomatic Move To Soften Allies, Germany.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—Our cheers over the caging of the jackal Mussolini must now be tempered with the knowledge that he was only half-pushed into the cage. He went at least half-way voluntarily.

Mussolini got out for purely military reasons. He could not get from Hitler the planes necessary to defend Italy. It was evident to all that he would have to obtain large reinforcements, not only of planes but troops, in order to defend his homeland. When he met Hitler a week before his "fall," he found Hitler had few of either to spare.

The King took over to work out as good a peace deal with us as possible and likewise as good a deal with Germany as possible. His first efforts were directed toward establishing Italy as a neutral nation like Switzerland.

Proposal Rejected

In doing this, his first act, therefore, was to serve the purposes of Hitler and Italy, because Italian neutrality would create a buffer defense state against us to protect Germany from our air bombardments.

Naturally we would not accept any such pro-Hitler proposition. Our cause demands that we use Italy, her airfields, bases, and even military supplies against her axis partner.

This left the little King sweating between two fears—fear of what the German occupied troops would do to him if he unconditionally surrendered to us, and fear of what our bombers would do to his cities if he did not surrender. It was evident to everyone except the King that eventually he would have to resolve in favor of his greatest fear, our devastation of his cities.

It is clear from inner and outer advices now, therefore, that Mussolini's departure signified no uprising of Roosevelt or Churchill democrats among the Italians. Indeed, there are few if any such in all Italy.

Those political prisoners who were released from jail did not go through the streets singing the praises of British or American democracy, although some were reported to have tried to strike up the Internationale.

Caution and clarity require us to realize the anti-fascist groups are of many liberal and radical varieties, and there is no organized group representing what might be described as a Roosevelt-Churchill idealism.

Few Real Targets

The only mystifying circumstance of the American bombing of Rome was that Mussolini, Badoglio and the King refused to take the step which would have avoided it. They did not declare their famous international citadel of religious and artistic culture "an open city," although those three little words spoken by any of the Italian authorities would have prevented us from dropping a single bomb.

Why did not they take this means of protecting their religious and artistic shrines which they revere even more than anyone else? Paris and Manila (mostly) were saved that way. Why not Rome?

The only military objectives in Rome are a huge chemical factory with a supplemental munitions plant, the railroad yards where large quantities of military supplies were being stored, and the military headquarters of the war department.

To make Rome an open city, the chemical-munitions plant would have to be abandoned entirely. Military rail traffic could have been shifted westward to a small rail line running down the coast, although the line is not suitable for large volume traffic or for military storage. The war department, of course, could be moved with the sacrifice only of communication facilities.

Thus, while it would have been difficult and uncomfortable for the Italians to free their city of the bombing threat, it was physically possible.

Local Views

The inescapable conclusion, therefore, must be that they like their shrines less than maintaining the few prime military advantages to keep their capital in the war.

It cannot be proved, but the most competent purely military authorities here believe, from these facts, that the Italians figured the United Nations would never bomb Rome for fear of the religious reaction.

Secondly, they knew that if we did bomb it, the act would furnish favorable propanganda for their side. Consequently, they intentionally let the matter drift and refused to take the step which would have saved Rome.

End of Limited Service

It Doesn't Mean Exactly What Many People Think.

By HERMAN B. ALLEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 —The war department's announcement that the limited service group in the Army will be eliminated seems to have been misunderstood by many citizens. Apparently, a fairly general impression is that it means no men—or hardly any—with minor physical defects will be inducted any more. The fact is that probably just about as many will be called into service as previously.

The statement issued by the war department said that the cases of men now assigned to non-combat service will be re-examined and that those not measuring up to minimum induction standards will be given honorable discharges.

Here, apparently, was the germ of misunderstanding. Many a prospective draftee cursed with weak eyes or flat feet must have told himself "If they're letting them out of the Army, they surely won't be taking any more in."

Some Still Stay

The flaw in this reasoning comes in the exceptions that the Army set up to this rule—men who are physically qualified to continue in the Army jobs they are holding, and whose commanding officers want to keep them, will stay in service. And the Army plans to continue taking men with slight physical defects who have extraordinary educational or background qualifications or who possess some needed skill. Mechanics can count on being drafted as before.

Actually, what the Army is doing is this.

1. It is correcting the effects of its eagerness in the early days of Selective Service, when it took in nearly everybody the draft boards called up for examination.

2. It is doing away with the term limited service, which has taken on something of a belittling tinge.

For a long time, induction of limited service men ran as high as 20 per cent, around 100,000 a month. The result was that a good many physically and mentally unsound men were in a position where any aggravation of their condition would cause them to be discharged. They would then be eligible to put in a claim for disability benefits even though neither their original condition nor the aggravation of it could actually be blamed on Army service. The new step, it is expected, will save the taxpayers millions of dollars in such benefits.

More WACs

With the introduction of more WACs into the Army, and as the Army's confidence in the outcome of the war rose higher, the need for limited service men for behind-the-lines jobs decreased. For the past few months, limited service inductions have been held to about 5 per cent. There seems small likelihood they will go below that.

The Navy has never had a limited service classification. Instead, it has taken in certain handicapped men with special qualifications and placed them in special service. The Army, in eliminating the term limited service, is doing substantially the same thing. In this respect the move is a psychological one. It removes any feeling of humiliation a man may have at being labeled as not quite on a par with his fellow soldiers.

Another reason that physically sub-standard single men and married men with "non-administrative" children (children conceived after Pearl Harbor) may still expect to be drafted is that Washington is extremely reluctant to begin wholesale drafting of fathers of "administrative" children. Chances are that if such a state of affairs appears to be crowding near, Selective Service boards will go back and re-shift the limited service men again.

More rigorous re-examination of 4-Fs already is taking place in some areas, especially in venereal disease cases. It was discovered that in some instances men had deliberately exposed themselves to venereal disease as a means of beating the draft. The Army's quick-cure methods soon make useable soldiers out of them, however.

OWI Confusion on Downfall of Mussolini Merely Reflects Muddle In Higher Places.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 — Much has been made of the fact that the OWI did not know what to say when suddenly on a Sunday afternoon Mussolini fell. But why did OWI not know what to say? We have been preparing the Sicilian campaign for about six months, and obviously the soldiers did their work well. But what were our political experts doing all that time? Were they getting ready, too? Obviously they were not ready, or Mr. Sherwood and his OWI would have known that while they were denouncing "the moronic little king," Gen. Eisenhower was being advised in Algiers to "commend the House of Savoy."

Mr. Shirer and Mrs. Anna O'Hare McCormick are, no doubt, quite right in saying that the OWI made a very bad guess about what to say that Sunday afternoon. But on a great question like our attitude toward the Italian king, it ought not to have been necessary for any government official to guess. Anybody and everybody could see in advance that the question was almost certain to rise, and if the OWI did not know the official answer, it must be either that the president and the state department forgot to tell them, which is unlikely, or that the president and the state department had not made up their minds.

Our Flattery Not an Issue

In itself the incident at OWI is of no real importance. For it is evident that the action of the king and Marshal Badoglio is not being determined by our flattery or our criticism. They preside over a country which is in such a state of collapse that they have neither the power to fight nor the power to surrender. Their armies have quit, except where they are sandwiched in among the Germans, so that if they go on fighting they have a choice of being killed, wounded or captured, whereas if they desert, they have no choice because the Germans will surely shoot them in the back.

In Italy itself Badoglio has not enough troops of any quality to resist us, but neither has he the troops, even if he and his tired king had the will, to deal with the few German divisions that are divided between northern and southern Italy.

We are confronted, therefore, with a situation for which we are unprepared. All we had prepared for was the military occupation of Sicily, and here is the kingdom of Italy with a helpless government which we do not know whether to support or to overthrow.

It is not, therefore, a contribution to the war for Secretary Hull to tell us that he must leave these great questions to the war department. That is asking too much of the war department and too little of the state department. It is the certain way to be even more dangerously unprepared for the much greater events which must eventually result from the downfall of Fascism and the collapse of Italy. This is the time when the state department needs to be thinking and not passing the buck to Gen. Marshall and Gen. Eisenhower.

Soldiers Must Expect Worse

It is the professional duty of the soldiers to make their ultimate plans on a time table which assumes that they must crush the whole armed forces of the enemy. To be fully prepared they must be prepared for the very worst, disregarding all windfalls, such as the collapse of the enemy morale.

But the better the soldiers carry out their own task of achieving military supremacy, the more likely it becomes that actual events will run far ahead of the military time table. It is for this that the civilian statesmen have to be prepared.

Now, the plain fact is that the President and the state department have been basing their European policy on a fundamental military assumption which, it is now almost certain, is going to prove to have been wrong. They have taken for their own premise the premise of the ground generals that the European war would be won gradually by prodigious land battles over a long period of time. For that reason they have not felt it urgent to come to firm decisions with our Allies about what we would do when the Hitlerite power breaks down.

We have put off the making of the difficult decisions about the future of Germany, with the result that when the Russians came along with a plan, it is a sensation because there is no United Nations plan.

But why should we be so astonished that there is no United Nations plan for Germany when we have made it a matter of principle that nothing can be settled about Germany's nearest neighbors, France and Poland, until Gen. Eisenhower is in Berlin?

"We're not depriving you, are we?"

Empty Promises

Either We Grant Service Men Full War Benefits Right Away or They Never Will Get Them.

By DAMON RUNYON

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT endorses the principle the campaign I have been carrying on in this column the past year for provisions for men discharged from the service for a period of time that will enable them to readjust themselves to civilian life without undue financial worries. He puts the idea in a slightly different form.

I do not think his form is as good as mine. I contend the men should continue to receive service pay for at least a year after they are discharge. In his recent speech, President Roosevelt suggested that each member of the armed forces and the merchant marine should receive mustering-out pay on discharge large enough to cover "a reasonable period of time between his discharge and the finding of a new job." The "reasonable period" turned out to be six months.

In case no job is found after diligent search then the serviceman is to get unemployment insurance if the individual registers with the United States employment service, which sounds fine, though how anyone can determine what amount would be large enough to cover a reasonable period of time between a man's discharge and the finding of a new job is beyond me. I would hate to trust to the generosity of the government in that respect, taking it off past performances, or to the stability of the United States employment service.

Moreover, President Roosevelt's remarks might be taken as meaning he thinks the men should be paid the full sum of the mustering-out pay in a lump. I think the American people with its experience in the payment of the soldiers' bonus will bear me out in my opinion that it would be better for the men themselves if the payments are scattered rather than to plunk down the money alloted each man in a job at a time when many veterans are likely to be lacking in financial judgment.

BUT in any event, there is a big hole in the bucket. President Roosevelt states the things to which he says he thinks the men are entitled. He says they must not be dumped back into an environment of inflation and unemployment, to a place on a bread line or on a corner selling apples. He says we must have jobs ready, instead of waiting to do a hasty, inefficient and ill-considered job at the last moment.

So have many others. Yet no plans are yet ready. President Roosevelt hopes congress will help in carrying out his assurance to the men in the armed forces that the American people will not let them down when the war is over, because, as he says, obviously the executive branch of the government cannot do it alone. But congress, with several bills before it, would make definite the pay continuance or otherwise give confidence to the servicemen about their future, has done little or nothing to date. A firm that assurance which was first made some time back.

Thus, it all simmers down to promises, the same old promises that have been held out to the men in all our wars. Even most of the other things which President Roosevelt says he thinks the men are entitled to are things that should have been made definite long ago.

"May the congress do its duty in this respect," says President Roosevelt. "The American people will insist on fulfilling this American obligation to the men and women in the armed forces who are winning this war for us."

I FERVENTLY echo this hope, but I confess to wax too optimistic about his faith in the attitude of the American people with respect to the men and women in the armed forces. For if we wait until the war is over before we begin to get something done for the boys—and girls—The American people (again going to the box office performance) will insist only on their right to squawk about any proposals for the benefits of the veterans that will involve an additional penny of expense.

All the obligations to the veterans the people will recognize, you can put in your eye, as the saying is. You can ask the veterans of World war I about this, if you wish. Ask them how many of the American people stepped up to them after the war and said: "I am under obligation to you and am working tooth and nail for you to get your bonus."

Remember what I tell you. If we wait until the war is over without getting definite legislation providing for the veterans, the only thing you will ever hear of those promises again will be in the platforms of the two parties every four years for the next 20 years.

Warm Weather Item

By Truman Twill

OUR busy little enemies, the Japanese, are looking for a way to convert rubber into gasoline, it says in the paper.

This is what might be called a warm weather item—something to ruminate over when you stroll out to rest your feet on the porch on a warm summer evening.

One of the great mysteries of the war, as it was started, you will remember, in the name of realism, was why the Japanese didn't recognize a good thing when they saw it. They were getting along as well as could be expected, selling their cheap merchandise hither and yon, getting invited to all the big parties and throwing their weight about at the important conferences.

Their best customer was the United States and they were up there pretty high on the sacred cow list, too. Japanese manufacturing and salesmanship had been edging into the U. S. and the ambitious little geezers even were becoming pests of themselves in India, selling their goods under John Bull's nose. That was the pre-war picture.

Don't disunderstand. This isn't a political editorial, or an article by an expert. This is an ordinary opinion about our enemy's well advertised shrewdness and strong sense of realism. This is what any ordinary bird might think on the porch of a warm summer evening with his shoes off.

The Japanese are trying to figure out how they can make gasoline out of rubber. They have rubber from here to there—practically the whole supply that used to be shipped to the United States. They seized it, and now they don't know what to do with it. Except for the jalopies owned by officials and big industrialists, there is about as much demand for rubber in Japan as there is in Sicily. This is where the clever Japanese captured, at the expense of bringing on a war and getting their ears knocked off.

Meanwhile, they have queered their own deal, doing a profitable business with the world's biggest undeveloped market—China. The Chinese could have been persuaded to buy Japanese goods, but they can't be bulldozed into it. The Japanese still haven't caught on to the basic idea of that cornerstone slogan of success: The customer is always right.

And in the United States, of course, the big thing is to find a way to make rubber out of gasoline, or the source of gasoline—crude oil. The Japanese have the rubber and want the gasoline. We have the gasoline and want the rubber.

Hey, someone, bring another pitcher of lemonade and the electric fan. Papa's getting heat in the face again.

Vows Exchanged By Miss Schultz, Harold W. Waddell

MRS. HAROLD WADDELL

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made here of the marriage of Miss Mary Jean Schultz, daughter of Herman P. Schultz of Youngstown, and Harold William Waddell of Cleveland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer R. Waddell of 482 South Vine street, which took place Saturday, July 31, at the Youngstown Country club in that city.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and had for her maid of honor and only attendant her sister, Miss Lydia Jane Schultz. John Waddell of Marion served as best man for his brother.

The ceremony was read at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon by Rev. Samuel J. Purvis of Memorial Presbyterian church, before the fireplace in the drawing room which was banked with woodwardia ferns, palms and huckleberry. Vases of white Maid of Orleans gladioli, and seven-branch candelabra holding white ceremonial tapers at either side completed the decorative theme.

The bridal party approached the improvised altar from an arched doorway framed with garlands of huckleberry foliage.

The bride wore a gown of white silk marquisette with a ruffle-edged heart-shaped yoke of Chantilly lace, the same lace forming a broad panel down the back and extending into a brief train which was also edged with a fluted organdie ruffle. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell from a ruffled Juliet cap of Chantilly lace and she carried a bouquet of Snow White roses and swansonia trilled with white maline and centered with a corsage of gardenias.

The maid of honor was costumed in yellow chiffon, her dress made with gathered bodice, full bishop's sleeves and a bouffant skirt. She wore a calot of braided yellow ribbon and carried yellow gloria roses and blue delphinium in a colonial bouquet edged with a yellow maline ruff.

Wilfred P. Stone played the traditional wedding music including the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" and the Mendelssohn wedding march, "At Dawning," by Cadman, "Love Song," by Grieg, and Romberg's "Serenade."

For the wedding reception the buffet table was arranged at the far end of the drawing room with appointments in bridal white. An all-white floral plaque of delphinium, roses and larkspur was the centerpiece and crystal candlesticks held white princess tapers. Around the base of the tiered wedding cake was a garland of white larkspur and adiantum.

Mrs. Waddell, mother of the bridegroom, received in a dusty rose [illegible] gown and wore a corsage of [illegible] delphinium, gloxinias and Phoenician roses.

Were the couple left for a honeymoon in Montreal and Quebec the bride will wear a brown and white [illegible] tailored [illegible] and matching accessories and a [illegible] corsage. Upon their return they will occupy an apartment at 2936 East 132nd street, Shaker Heights.

The bride was graduated from Lasell Junior college at Auburndale, Mass., and Northwestern University School of Speech at Evanston, Ill. She is a provisional member of the Junior League and a member of Alpha Phi and Phi Beta, the latter an honorary music and speech sorority.

Mr. Waddell, who is associated with WJW radio station opening in Cleveland this fall, is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university and is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

OPA Questions Answered

...NBUS, O., Aug. 5—The ... price administration ... today a list of questions ...quently asked and set ... answers. Here they ...

... B book expires Aug. ... have only four coupons ... can I obtain additional ... for a 350-mile vacation ... the east?

A. No. War price and rationing boards are not authorized to give "extra" gasoline for vacation trips; motorists can take these trips only on their existing rations. Thus A book holders have a maximum non-occupational ration of 480 miles for a two-month period, and B and C book holders have 180 miles.

Q. Can a butcher force a customer to buy items such as cold cuts, tripe, etc., in order to obtain a retail cut of beef?

A. No. This is definitely not permitted and OPA asks all housewives to report such violations to their local war price and rationing boards.

Q. Is a rent increase permitted in all cases where there has been a substantial increase in the services, furniture, furnishings or equipment provided with the housing accommodations since June 1, 1942?

A. Not in all cases. No increase in the maximum rent shall be ordered unless the increase occurred with the consent of the tenant or while the accommodations were vacant, provided, however, that an adjustment may be ordered, even though the tenant refuses to consent to the increase if it is determined that such increase is reasonably required for the operation of a multiple dwelling structure or other structure of which the accommodations are a part, or if the increase is necessary for the preservation or maintenance of the accommodations.

Q. I returned shoes I wore only twice to my dealer and, though he will give me a new pair in exchange, he demands another stamp. Is this correct?

A. Yes. Only new shoes may be exchanged without stamps for new shoes. A worn shoe is not considered a new shoe. If the shoe was defective and not a misfit and was returned within 30 days after purchase, the dealer can give you a statement indicating that you have returned such shoes to him. If this statement is properly presented to your local war price and rationing board, a special shoe stamp will be issued to you.

Q. How long is the special shoe stamp good?

A. For 30 days after the date of issue.

• • •

Q. What is the ceiling price on cabbage?

A. The highest legal price at retail is 6 cents per pound.

Q. I hold only an A book. Am I entitled to new tires?

A. No. Motorists with A books, unless their cars are used for occupational purposes, are only permitted recapping service and new tubes.

Q. Shouldn't a retail meat market have the retail ceiling price chart on display?

A. Yes, each retail market must have the retail ceiling price chart on display. Moreover, it is important that this chart be displayed in a manner such that it may be easily read by all customers in the market.

Q. Is there a ceiling price on meals served on trains?

A. Yes, standardized "economy" meals are provided at 85 cents for breakfast, $1 for lunch, and $1.10 dinner. Other a la carte meals, including alcoholic beverages, are frozen at the highest prices charged during the Feb.1—April 10, 1943, base period.

Q. In applying at my war price and rationing board for my 15 pounds of canning sugar, now that I have used the 10 pounds obtained with stamps No. 15 and 16, will I be allowed sugar for making jelly?

A. Yes, because of butter scarcity, OPA this year has made it possible to obtain five pounds of sugar per person for making jams, jellies, preserves, and fruit butter. This five pounds is included in the total of 25 pounds available for canning purposes: 10 pounds through stamps 15 and 16, and 15 pounds by application at your local war price and rationing board.

Q. Has a retail price been established for fresh berries?

A. Effective July ... tail price for fresh berries is as follows: red raspberries, 40 cents a quart; black raspberries, 33 cents; youngberries, boysenberries, loganberries and blackberries, 33 cents; and gooseberries, 26 cents a quart.

Q. I am a nurse's aide. Can I get a stamps for extra shoes for this work?

A. Yes, if you have no stamps in your family that you can use. If there are stamps available in your family you are required to use them for any shoes you may need. After all your family's stamps are used, if you need shoes, application may be made to your local war price and rationing board.

Q. Can a garage increase its rates for public parking or storage of automobiles?

A. No. Under maximum price regulation No. 165, a garage or parking place should not charge more than the rates charged to the public in March, 1942, for the same service to a customer of the same class.

Q. Are dentists' or doctors' fees covered by price control?

A. No. Professional services, such as those performed by doctors and dentists, are at present exempted from price control.

Hull Says State Department Going Along Smoothly

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Secretary Hull asserted today the state department is "functioning efficiently."

That was part of his response to a request for comment on a published assertion that "conflicting personalities, lack of a cohesive policy, and a resulting impairment of the efficiency of the department of state at a time when it must assume tremendous burdens relating to the effectiveness of the coming peace have been reported by administrative experts to th executive office of the President." (This appeared in the New York Times in a special dispatch from Washington yesterday.)

Hull told his press conference:

"I have no comment to make except that I might say that, having been in the department for some 10 years and more and charged with all the responsibility of its administration, I think I know something about what is going on in the department.

"It is functioning efficiently, and I am prepared at any time to give the fullest accounting to any person or agency. That is all I have in mind at the moment."

The published account said "rivalry between Secretary Hull and Undersecretary Sumner Welles is common knowledge" here and that "great concern is felt in Washington over the ability of the state department, in its present organizational condition, to fulfill the added tasks imposed by the President."

Once believed to be anti-Nazi, Boris reckoned when Hitler waxed. MARION SOLDIER IN JAP PRISON CAMP HEARD FROM

Mother Receives Card from Harold E. Thomas.

A card received by Mrs. James Lingo of 317 South Vine street, Monday, is the first word she has received directly from her son, Harold Eugene Thomas, a prisoner of war in Japan, since May 5, 1942. Word of his being taken prisoner was received by the family from the bureau of naval personnel in March this year. Thomas, a coxswain in the U. S. Navy, reported his health was as usual, and that he was working for pay.

He was reported missing a year ago last May when Corregidor fell and was on the Canopa which was scuttled at that time. He spent two and one-half years on the Marblehead. Thomas, who was 22 years old last June, has spent his last two birthdays in the Jap prison camp. He enlisted in the Navy in December of 1938 when he was a junior at Harding High school. His last visit home was in April four years ago.

Control of Trade Gives Nazis a Stranglehold on Tiny Finland

Germans Dominate Small Nation's Business; Finns Pay Heavy Taxes· Don't Fear Post-War Ills.

For aid in Germany's economic grip, the latest allotment tax and price control measures to avoid inflation, John Colburn, first American correspondent to visit here recently in several months, tells of the financial situation in the following article. Last of a series written on his return to Stockholm to escape stringent censorship.

By JOHN F. COLBURN

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 4—Germany holds an economic stranglehold over Finland by dominating directly or indirectly 93 per cent of Finnish trade.

Since the allied blockade cut off the link with America and Britain, 75 per cent of Finland's trade has been with Germany, another 10 per cent with German occupied Denmark and eight per cent must pass over Nazi controlled transportation lines to other European countries. The remaining seven per cent is direct with neutral Sweden.

Through foreign trade since 1940 Finland owed Germany 4,280,000,000 reichmarks. (The reichsmark was about 40 U. S. cents before Germany and America went to war.)

From Finland Germany gets badly needed copper, some nickel but mostly timber products.

Finnish Trade

The Finns received from the reich or the countries dominated by the Nazis grain, cattle feed, raw materials, metals, textiles, rubber, chemicals, weapons and coal. Finnish-made playing cards go to Bulgaria for tobacco. Sweden and Germany and occupied Denmark help with food stuffs.

Besides common timber for construction projects and wood-pulp for paper or cardboard boxes, Germany gets 22 other vital materials for its war machine from Finnish wood industries.

Finland is one of the richest forest lands in the world with 72 per cent of the nation's area in timber whose products represented 85 per cent of her pre-war exports. Experts report still more timber could be grown by draining swamplands.

Germany is constantly calling for more wood products, but the man-power shortage is handicapping timber processing.

Finland is also compelled to use timber not only for fuel but for shoes and clothing.

Finnish leather industries are reconverted to producing wooden soles. Uppers are made of cellulose paper compound. Cellulose textiles also go into the manufacture of suits and shirts for men and dresses and hose for women, since cotton and wool are no longer available.

Pay Heavy Taxes

One expert said, "Finland is probably assessing higher taxes than any other country in the world."

Single persons of the lower middle class now pay direct taxes of from 20 to 25 per cent of their income, but in the high income bracket the taxes of a property owner often exceeds 100 per cent of his income. Taxes for married persons are somewhat lower.

Wages increase automatically when the cost of living rises ten per cent.

The Finns generally hold few fears of post war unemployment. They are confident a further revival of agriculture and the need for men in forestry and building projects will take up the man-power slack caused by demobilization.

Report Yank Raid On Norway Wrecked Plant

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 5—An official Norwegian spokesman said yesterday information had been received that the American daylight raid on Heroya, Norway, July 24, wiped out the new Nazi aluminum factory there and destroyed other factory areas, a power station and two anti-aircraft batteries.

He said the director of the aluminum factory, which was the main target of the Flying Fortress attack, had reported its destruction was so complete it could not be rebuilt during the war. Forty-two persons were reported killed and 100 injured.

Macaroni Salad As a Substitute

By BETSY NEWMAN

Varying one's menus when there are shortages and one cannot always have what one would like is a big help. In the menu I'm giving you today, a macaroni salad is served in place of potatoes, serving it with a plate of cold meat—if you have the meat—or fish if you haven't, and using a buttermilk cake for dessert, with sliced peaches or cooked fruit if you like.

MENU

Cold Meat or Fish Platter, Savory Macaroni Salad, Summer Squash, Buttermilk Cake, Tea or Coffee.

Savory Macaroni Salad

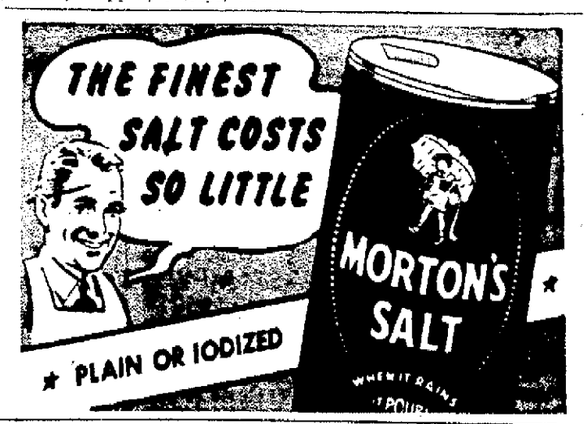
Two c. cooked macaroni, 1½ c. diced celery, 4 tbsps. green pepper, chopped, ½ tsp. salt, 2 tbsps. pimento, chopped, 4 tbsps. sliced ripe olives, Tobasco sauce, mayonnaise, 1 hard-cooked egg.

Combine cooked macaroni, celery, green pepper, pimento and sliced ripe olives, season with a few drops of tabasco sauce, moisten with mayonnaise, and garnish with hard-cooked egg and olives.

Buttermilk Cake

One c. cake flour, ½ tsp. salt, ¾ tsp. soda, [illegible] c. sugar, 1 egg, ½ c. buttermilk, ½ tsp. vanilla, 1 c. nut meats and raisins, mixed.

Sift flour, measure and sift three times with salt and soda. Cream fat, add sugar gradually, creaming together well. Beat egg and buttermilk and vanilla and continue beating until well blended about 1 minute, and sifted dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk mixture to creamed sugar and shortening, add nuts and raisins and bake in greased and lined loaf pan, in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 40 to 45 minutes or until nicely browned.



Dressing That Will Add Zest To Salad

By ALICE DENHOFF

Here, without ado or preamble we present a batch of recipes that offer aid in the vital task of good and nutritious eating. First comes a really splendid salad dressing, guaranteed to turn the simplest salad into a triumph. To one cup of mayonnaise, add a teaspoon curry powder, teaspoon chopped scallion tops, teaspoon water-thin radish slices. Blend together and chill.

Creamed Sweetbreads is a light and appetizing dish, the sort of thing that is starred on restaurant menus but that few cooks think of preparing for home use. To serve 6, soak 2 pair sweetbreads in cold water for an hour or two, changing water 2 or 3 times during the process. Drain, then plunge into boiling water to which a tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice has been added. Cook for 5 minutes, then immediately put into ice cold water to blanch. Let remain in water 10 minutes then wipe dry and chill, removing all pipe-like connecting fibers possible. When chilled, separate into small pieces. Add tablespoon minced onion to ¼ cup melted fat, and cook over low heat for 3 minutes. Stir in 3 tablespoons flour, teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper, and when well blended, add 2 cups rich milk or one cup light cream and one cup chicken stock, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and boils. Add sweetbreads, one pimento, cut into strips, or tablespoon minced parsley and tablespoon lemon juice. Reheat and serve in patty shells.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL NEEDED
★VOTE "NO" ON MORE TAXES NOW.

In the not too distant future, when the war is won and our civilian economy has weathered the post-war period of readjustment, Marion will have to build a new High School with all the modern facilities, including a commodious auditorium. This project will be endorsed by all citizens, but we must prepare for it now. The first step to be considered by real estate taxpayers and those who pay no realty taxes, and should be in the minds of school board members and school administrators, is keeping our tax rate at present levels, in this critical period for property owners, so that Marion real estate will be in a sound position to support the large bond issue necessary to pay for this needed improvement.

Evolution of the Mattress

Corn Husks

filled the mattresses of the pioneers. The men hauled in clean, dried husks, the women sewed 'em up in ticking. How those dried husks must have stabbed the sleepers! But they slept on them all right. Liked them because they were resilient.

Feather Beds

came next and they were prized as health. Mountainous and heavy, they lumped and slumped; they got smelly and they sometimes smothered sleepers. But they were soft and warm and were one jump ahead of corn husks.

Excelsior and Cotton

made the questionable stuffing of the first commercial mattresses within the reach of all. But also the spring went out of the excelsior which ground down to dust, and the cotton got hard and flat.

• and now?

Cotton Felts

lull us to sleep!

Soft as a feather bed at its best, resilient (a word the pioneers didn't know, but a feature they tried to get with corn husks and excelsior) new cotton felt mattresses have everything for your sleeping comfort.

They're what you need in these tense times! Select yours now at Schaffner's.

BUCYRUS RECREATION FUNDS REQUESTED

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Aug 5 — An application signed by Mayor William F. Whitemire was on its way to the state office of the federal works agency today, seeking a federal aid recreational program for service men and women in Bucyrus. The application, asking approval of a $15,000 budget set by Lloyd Reese, contact man for the office of community war services, was presented to city council for its approval by the Civilian Defense Recreational chairman, E. B. Hagaman Tuesday.

If approved by the FWA, Bucyrus is assured of $15,000 with which to administer and promote a recreational program before the beginning of winter, Reese said.

The closing of one of the city's main thoroughfares, Warren street for the duration and for an unlimited time after the war was in view today after council heard a petition filed by the W. A. Ridell Co., now working on Maritime Commission contracts, asking permission to close part of the street to permit the shop to be enclosed with wire fencing. The Maritime Commission had ordered such a safety measure. Lights about the outside of the plant and the placing of guards were also ordered, he advised.

400 Couples Attend Annual Dance of Police Department

Approximately 400 couples attended the annual police dance held at the Hi-Way Rollarena last night, officials of Marion County Lodge No. 24, Fraternal Order of Police, reported. Dick Zahn and his orchestra furnished the music. Decorations were in a patriotic theme, centering around the flags of the allied nations.

Around 1,100 tickets were sold by patrolmen. The proceeds will go into the lodge treasury.

City patrolman were in charge of the dance, with Patrolman E. H. Hoffman head of a committee in charge of arrangements, and Patrolman Justin Cornely and Lew Shadaker assisting.

Coalition Government Expected for Ontario

By The Associated Press

TORONTO, Aug. 5 — Formation of a coalition government in Ontario, with Lieut. Col. George A. Drew, 49-year-old Toronto lawyer and head of the Progressive Conservative party, as premier, appeared likely today as the result of yesterday's wartime provincial election.

Defeat of the Liberal administration of Harry C. Nixon was decisive but no one party obtained a majority in the 90-seat house and therefore a coalition government seemed the only answer. Nearly complete returns indicated that Drew's Progressive Conservatives had won at least 38 seats, with the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation taking 32 and the Liberals only 13. Two Labortes and one Independent Liberal also were elected.

The Queen home, Byrne said, was washed into the swollen stream while the occupants were asleep. About 10 other homes also were swept from their foundations in the section, he added.

Byrne, who toured the stricken area in company with officers, said that Mr. and Mrs. George Yeager and five children, and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Simons, were missing at Copen, near Heaters. They were trapped by flooded Salt Lick creek which joins O'Brien's fork about one mile below Heaters and empties into the little Kanawha river at Burnsville.

There were reports here that Mr. and Mrs. John Long and a daughter escaped death when their home, swept from its foundation, lodged against a bridge about a mile below Heaters. They were rescued by volunteer firemen from Sutton.

Floods Hit Ohio But Marion Co. Escapes

While flood waters poured over many parts of Ohio, most of Marion county was still high and dry despite a rainfall of 4.44 inches in the last 48 hours.

Basements in scattered sections of the city were flooded and in the rural area ditches and small creeks were reported out of their banks.

At LaRue the river is "bank high" and is overflowed in some of the low places, and at Prospect the reading is 7.22, "nothing extraordinary," according to David Hord, who registers the river readings for the weather bureau.

A miniature cloudburst which struck Marion yesterday was nothing more than a sprinke at Prospect, it was reported.

According to an Associated Press dispatch heavy rains sent streams throughout Central Ohio flowing out of their banks today and forced hundreds of persons to evacuate their homes.

Ninety families moved out of two Columbus suburbs as Big Walnut creek overflowed its banks. Forty families were evacuated from the Wonderland Addition north of Port Columbus and 50 families were forced out in Gould Park.

MINE OPERATORS WARNED BY ICKES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 — An undercurrent of talk about possible damage suits against the government for seizing the coal mines during the recent strikes brought from Interior Secretary Ickes today a warning the government might charge the operators for running the mines.

Representatives of the coal industry have demanded return of the mines to the owners and Ickes, the mine boss in his capacity as solid fuels administrator, has withheld a reply.

He made it clear, however in laying down terms for return of the mines on an "if and when" basis that in any case where the government is subject to a damage claim:

"It expressly reserves the right to assert by way of offset to any such claimed liability, benefits resulting to the mining company from government possession and control . . ."

CONFERENCE

question of using air power to crush Germany when he addressed the congress May 19. He reported then that opinion was divided "as to whether air power could by itself bring about the collapse in Germany or Italy." He added:

"The experiment is well worth trying so long as other measures are not excluded."

The experiment has been under way several weeks. Other measures have not been lacking. On the eastern front the Russians countered Germany's major attempt at an offensive with a drive which has resulted in the fall of Orel. Military authorities say the German army still is powerful and well equipped, but the fall of Orel definitely weakens its hold on the eastern front.

Likewise in Sicily the fall of Catania may be regarded as the beginning of the end of enemy resistance to the first allied invasion thrust into the immediate area of Europe.

Fall of Catania and Orel Two More Spikes for Nazi Coffin

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

A couple more steel spikes have been driven into the coffin of Hitlerism in the capture of two mighty strategic cities—Orel on the flaming Russian front, and ancient Catania in the northeast corner of Sicily.

Both these cities were vital anchor points for the Nazis.

The heavily fortified and strongly held railway center of Orel has for almost two years been the hinge for Hitler's great battle line between this point not far below Moscow, and the Sea of Azov.

Catania, crouching under the great volcano of Etna, has been the powerful position which the Nazis and Italians hooked the left wing of the front which they threw across the last remaining tip of northeast Sicily in the defense of Messina and across to the Italian mainland, only two miles across the strait from that port.

These two operations, while widely separated and seemingly having little relation to each other, are parts of offensives which in reality are acting as a pair of mighty pincers on the German front in Russia. This is so because (1) if the Russians have the reserve power with which to follow up their notable capture of Orel, it will endanger Hitler's entire right wing, and because (2) victory in Sicily brings the Allies nearer to possible invasion of the Balkans, which would further jeopardize that Nazi right wing.

Hitler Faces Big Withdrawal

In short Hitler is being pushed steadily toward that day when he will have to pull back his entire vast line of more than a thousand miles in Russia in order to reach new positions which will afford greater security.

While this is a historic moment for the Allies, we should remember that the two captures are parts of continuing operations. Fierce fighting lies ahead in both theaters.

In Sicily the terrain within the remaining triangle which the axis forces are defending is rugged and hilly. It's well adapted to defense and has been strongly fortified. There are said to be close to 100,000 axis troops assigned to the desperate task of holding this "last ditch," something more than half of them being Germans.

Thus we have the makings of a great battle among the innumerable hilly strongholds, many of which probably will have to be taken at the point of the bayonet—assuming that the axis forces don't fold up, and there's been no indication of this yet among the Germans. Ultimately the enemy must surrender or be annihilated for there is no escape from this triangular trap for the vast majority of the axis troops.

Possibilities at Orel

It's too soon to assay the full import of the Red capture of Orel. The cracking of this major fortress represents one of the great victories of the war. Into it have gone the lives of many scores of thousands of fighting men of both Germany and Russia.

Just recently, it's only 10 days ago that I received a letter from one of my notorious Nazi sympathizer, friends—what is a soldier," who took me to task for saying that the Nazis were the Reds would make One. He said it was a preposterous suggestion and sang the praises of the Boche. There are a lot of these fifth columnists still around.

The fighting which has preceded the victory has been titanic—reminiscent of the struggle at Stalingrad. The Russians drove forward in the face of the best defense which Hitler could muster, and they already had Orel surrounded. Complete encirclement would have meant the annihilation of a Nazi force of some 250,000 men, but it would appear that the German command has been able to withdraw many of them.

Orel not only is a strong point, but it is a vital railway center. Its capture will enable the Russians to reopen vital rail communications between Moscow and the southern sectors.

The ultimate effect of the fall of Orel might be catastrophic for the Germans, if the Russians have the strength to develop it. However, this is no time to jump to sweeping conclusions.

78,000 OHIO WAR WORKERS FACE DRAFT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 5 — C. W. Goble, state director of selective service, said today that war workers in 800 Ohio plants were subject to the draft and that about 70.7 per cent of the workers would be called within six months.

Goble explained selective service headquarters keeps up to date the draft status of workers in plants participating in the replacement schedule program.

Under this arrangement the selective service informs employers in advance that an employe is to be called for Army service and allows the employer time to train replacements.

In contrast, plants not participating in the program often receive no advance notice of their employes' imminent induction, Goble said.

Slave To Purgatives Finds Freedom!
Feels 20 Years Younger He Says!

Everyone who has despaired ever finding normal relief should read this unsolicited letter:

"Six years ago, I was quite sure I'd taken many so-called 'cures,' but it was the same old story. It seemed that I had to be stronger than the last. Then I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. I was 'regular' again, with none of the griping pain. I'm 56, but feel more than 20 years ago when I was a victim of common constipation." Mr. A. Bowne, 426 S. Villa Avenue, Villa Park, Ill.

What's the secret of such reports of ALL-BRAN's wonderful results? It's simply this: Lack of certain cellulosic elements in the diet is a common cause of constipation. Scientists say KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is a rich, natural source of these elements—which help the colonic flora do their work—lightening and fluffing the accumulated waste for easy, natural evacuation. ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Not roughage that acts by "sweeping you out"! It's gentle-acting, "regulating" food.

Eat ALL-BRAN regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you, too, don't find the relief you've dreamed of! Insist on the genuine ALL-BRAN! It is made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Survey Shows School Costs Here 22.9% Under Average

...the third of a series of ...ticles the two-mill city ... to be submitted to ...ers next Tuesday. It is ...information from city ...ials and a survey ...research department ...Chamber of Commerce.

...s city school costs are ...cent under the average ...ght Ohio cities of com... that are included in a ...-made survey by the re... ...partment of the Ohio ... Commerce.

...Chamber report pointed ...in itself isn't conclusive ...hat Marion should spend ...these figures show the ...expenditures have been ...nable from a compara... ...ment."

...Marion's school pro... ...be brought up nearer ...rage of those in other com... ...ities depends on the re... ...next Tuesday's primary ...

Significant Figures

...the strongest arguments ...in city school records ...of the levy is the fact ...persons have left the city ...teaching staff in the last ...years—and 32 of them went ...jobs in other schools. The ...ct has an unusual sig... just now, because in ...parison with the 32 who went ...other teaching positions, only ...went to private industry which, ...war-inflated activity, is ...rarely accused of drawing work... ...from every other field of em...ployment.

These figures tend to support the opinion held by school offi... that instructors are not de...manding nor expecting pay in...creases that would put them on a par with industry. They are happy in their chosen profession—but they feel they should have cost-of-living wage adjustments in times like these, especially in view of the fact Marion is regularly near the bottom of comparative lists of schools so far as salaries are concerned, school officials point out.

Alternative Choices

With this picture in mind, a part of the leaflet in support of the levy being distributed by the City P.-T. A. council takes on added significance. "If this levy is not approved," the leaflet states, the board of education faces the following choices: (a) To reduce the cost of schools in 1944 by $30,200. Since 75 per cent of expenditures are for wages this would mean (1) reduction of wages for the school year 1944-45 and (2) failure to allow normal increases on the salary schedule. (b) to pay the present wages for the next school year, and close school during the last three school weeks of 1944. To close three weeks would lose the people of Marion $15,000 from state school funds."

The effect of either of these choices would be to reduce the amount of money teachers could hope to earn in 1944, and the departure of instructors for other more profitable jobs that would result from either of these choices is something school officials don't like to contemplate. With industry putting up lively bids for workers, it isn't an easy matter these days to fill teaching vacancies.

Another thought officials hope the public will bear in mind in considering the levy proposal is that school officials have no authority nor ability to increase the amount of revenue the schools can receive. Only the voters or the state legislature can do that, and since Marion shares in state school foundation funds on a basis that is designed to treat all communities alike, the answer seems to rest with the voters and taxpayers at home. As in the case of most public services, the persons who are going to foot the bill are the ones who must decide whether the service shall be performed.

Detailed Comparison

Getting back to the original point that Marion's school costs are 22.9 per cent under the average costs for the eight other schools of comparable size covered by the C. of C. survey, here's a quick glance at how Marion's detailed expenditures line up with the average for the other eight cities. In each case, the figure is the amount spent each year for each pupil in the Marion schools for the items listed, and the figures in parentheses are the average for the eight other cities:

General control, $2.38 ($2.56); instruction, $62.49 ($76.40); plant operation, $10.92 ($14.38); plant maintenance $3.41 ($3.36); auxiliary agencies $1.15 ($6.39); fixed charges, $2.39 ($5.89).

Another interesting study is provided by the breakdown of the school dollar in Marion. Out of each dollar received, the schools spend 75½ cents for instruction, 13.2 cents for plant operation, 4.1 cents for plant maintenance, 2.9 cents each for fixed charges and general control and 1.4 cents for auxiliary agencies.

Sweden Shuts Door on Nazis

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 5—Transportation of German troops across Sweden to and from Norway will be halted Aug. 20 and the movement of Nazi war materials will be discontinued Aug. 15, a Swedish communique announced today.

The action had been expected here for weeks while Sweden carefully brought her military preparedness to its highest state of efficiency since the war began.

It was estimated that Sweden now has close to 400,000 men under arms.

The importance of the military traffic across Norway was revealed recently by the Swedish press, which said 250,000 German soldiers had moved annually between Germany and Norway via Sweden.

BELIEVES MATERNITY PLAN WILL GET O. K.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 5 — Dr. Edwin Daily, health director of the children's bureau in Washington, expressed belief today that Ohio physicians would cooperate in a federal program of free maternity care for wives of non-commissioned servicemen.

His observation came during a conference here with Dr. R. H. Markwith, Ohio health director, to discuss the program in 39 states which was rejected by the state health department upon recommendation of the Ohio State Medical association council.

CATANIA

killed more Germans than I killed Englishmen."

The enemy frantically planted mines and blew up bridges in attempting to stem the inexorable allied advance.

Catania represented the hardest and bloodiest victory of the entire campaign.

Allied armies continued their progress, the communique declared.

British warships pounding the coast above Catania "successfully bombarded" the road and railway at Taormina midway between Catania and Messina yesterday, a naval communique declared.

Other allied units smashing ahead in a flanking movement on the southern axis line have stormed in bayonet charges to within five miles of the key supply road skirting the western base of Mt. Etna.

Allied troops "continue their advance along the whole front," said the regular daily communique issued by Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters.

"The enemy is trying to slow down our advance, leaving behind mines and destroying all installations."

Catania dominates the Catania plain where some of the bitterest fighting of the Sicilian campaign has been raging as the Eighth Army hammered against strong minefields and artillery and tank defenses of crack German troops.

Text of Communique

"The text of the special communique:

"The city of Catania has been in our hands since 8:30 a. m. this morning.

"It is the British Eighth Army which has entered the town."

(A Berlin broadcast recorded by The Associated Press said "evacuation of Catania by German troops is authoritatively confirmed, the enemy having been misled by a successful maneuver.")

Along the northeast coast, American cruisers and destroyers continued their day and night bombardment of enemy positions in front of the American doughboys, whose fast pace was officially attributed by Army commands to this naval cooperation.

The general advance through breaches in the enemy's western flank gained up to six miles yesterday as American, British and Canadian forces drove the bitterly defending Germans from their positions atop craggy hills in hand-to-hand fighting.

In the north, the American army of Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton Jr., sweeping eastward toward Messina, crashed four miles beyond fallen San Stefano to occupy Caronia and its port, Caronia Marina.

Axis defenders along the costal route were blasted by American destroyers which pumped shells into defense targets from the battle line to Cape Orlando, 16 miles to the east.

Precision bombing smashed military targets inside Catania, but left the city itself virtually unscathed, an RAF pilot reported today as British troops entered the vital objective.

All hangars were damaged at the airdrome and one administration building had received a direct hit from a heavy bomb. Some attempt at repairs had been started, then nullified when bombs blew holes in repaired sections.

The railway switching yards were pitted with craters from heavy bombs, and two large sheds were gutted.

Some of the new port facilities which will be valuable for allied shipping were almost untouched by high explosives.

TAX CHOICES DOWN TO TWO

New Levy Expected To Be Either on Incomes Or on Retail Sales.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—The preliminary search for new billions of war-financing revenue appear narrowing to two major potentialities — increases in individual and corporate income taxes, or a federal retail sales tax.

Capitol Hill heard informal reports that treasury and congressional tax experts in joint conferences were leaning heavily toward income tax increases, possibly with an excess profits levy against individuals with swollen wartime incomes, and were putting little if any emphasis on a retail sales levy.

At the same time there were increasing signs that a bloc might form within congress favoring a sales tax up to 10 per cent to avoid further drastic direct deductions from income.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee declared he would battle for protection of millions of persons in the "fixed-income" class—those whose earnings have been jacked up but little if at all by the booming wartime economy.

Doughton conferred with Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and issued a statement saying that recognition must be given "that in any income group there may be people who need to be protected against the full impact of tax increases."

Morgenthau has suggested that $12,000,000,000 is needed next year in addition to the $7[illegible],000,000 now in sight.

Doughton told newspapermen that any new taxes "must be within the limitations of the taxpayers to pay," adding that the new tax program should be drawn with two objectives in view—control of inflation as well as additional revenue.

Golf Tourney Sponsor Named

Y's Men's Club To Direct Fifth Annual Marion County Event; Committee Appointed.

The fifth annual Marion county golf tournament will be held this year and will be under sponsorship of the Y's Men's club.

The club, in its weekly meeting at the Y.M.C.A. last night, agreed to assume full responsibility in running the county golf event this year.

A committee consisting of Y's Men's members was named to work out detailed plans for the tourney, such as participant eligibility rules, entry deadline, qualifying deadline and tournament match play dates. Howard Henry, member of the county golf committee, was named chairman. Other members are William Isaly, Kenneth Fields, Marion Hinklin, manager of the Marion-Del course, and Kenneth Staats.

Initial meeting of the committee has been scheduled for tomorrow night at the Y.M.C.A.

The tournament will be held at the Marion-Del course this year in accordance with the rotation policy of the county event. Each year the courses is rotated between Marion-Del and the Country club. Last year the tourney was held on the Country club course.

Bob Owens, late a Country club linksman and now in the Navy, won the first flight county golf title last year. He won temporary possession of The Marion Star trophy, awarded each year to the tournament first place winner. This same trophy will be given to the first division winner of this year's event.

Only golfer to win the tourney three years in a row and thus obtain permanent possession of The Star cup, was John Rife, now a Navy Seabee.

Supervising body of the county tournament in past years has been a committee chosen by Y.M.C.A. officials.

Following the Y's Men's business discussion last night which included adoption of the county golf proposal, Thomas D. Bair, biology instructor at Harding High school, addressed the club. He chose heredity as his topic.

In the absence of William Hamer, club president, Vice President Arthur Zachman presided.

Rehearsal Is Set For Marion Civic Chorus

A dessert rehearsal has been arranged for members of the Marion Civic Chorus by officers of the organization, Tuesday night at the Marion Country club, it was announced today. The rehearsal, set for 7:30 o'clock, is in preparation for the "pop" concert to be given by the chorus later this summer. The success of the concert depends largely on attendance of the members at this rehearsal, the director, L. O. Jones, and officers of the club announce. Mrs. Harold K. Mosier is president of the chorus.

The chorus members are asked to contact their attendance caller or Mrs. Warren J. Wise and advise whether they will share their car for transportation or will want transportation.

ICKES HINTS GAS RATION CUT NEAR

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 5—Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes declared today "the oil transportation has been about whipped" and that fair and just handling of the oil supply problem would require diversion of petroleum products from the middle west and southwest to the east, now that they can be moved.

Ickes set forth his office's position at a meeting of a group of congressmen called to discuss the question of whether the midwest and southwest shall have less gasoline. The administrator brought with him from Washington staff members to answer queries from members of an unofficial midwest congressional rationing committee.

Varsity Sports Out for Army Trainees

Final "No" Is Answer After Congress Group Makes Special Plea.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—Petitions may come and petitions may go, but the Army has ruled once and for all the men it has placed in colleges are ineligible for varsity sports competition.

A hope the Army would relent and permit its student-soldiers to play varsity football keeps finding expression in many quarters but officials said today "the question is not an open one."

Not open, they pointed out, means closed—closed by the flat "no" that for four months has been the official reply to the question: Will the soldiers in the Army specialized training program be permitted to engage in intercollegiate sports?

Despite the petition submitted recently by 256 members of congress headed by Rep. Samuel A. Weiss of Pennsylvania, officers say there has been no change in policy. Secretary of War Stimson and Undersecretary Patterson were not available for comment, but inquiries elsewhere made it more than evident their subordinates would be astonished if they changed the order.

The Navy, much more liberal in its attitude on the subject, has an entirely different set of problems, and furthermore the policy announced last week-end by Secretary Knox, placing new restrictions on Navy participation in intercollegiate football, is taken as an indication that the Navy has found complete freedom in that regard not entirely to its liking.

Basically, the Army's attitude is that men assigned to colleges for intensive classroom work and supervised study have no time for varsity sports. On the average, the men have about six hours' leisure a week.

The Army expects the men to participate in sports but strictly of the intramural variety. Special allowances and freedom could not be granted to the minority who would be engaged in varsity sports.

COOLER-COMMERCIAL FRAY SET TONIGHT

In the next to the last Industrial league game of the season, Universal Cooler will take a stab at tying Huber for the loop title by trying to beat Commercial Steel tonight at Lincoln park.

The status quo now finds Huber in first place with seven wins and one loss, all the scheduled loop games for the season. Cooler is one-half game behind in second place position with six triumphs and also one defeat. With the Threshers idle tonight, Cooler can pick up that half game by walloping the Steelers for the second time this year.

However, the first Cooler-Commercial contest was hardly a walloping. Universal barely breezed by the Steelers, 5 to 4. But Everly was the winning elbower in that game with "Red" Millington of Commercial, the runner-up moundsman.

Everly and Millington, both of whom hurled every game played by their respective teams this season, will probably make tonight's game no exception.

The true and average strength of the Steelers is not entirely known for on one night you have Huber blasting Commercial, 13 to 2, and the next week the Steelers popping up with a 4 to 2 win over the Marion Engineer Depot.

FRANK PUTMAN SETS PACE IN BOWLING COMPETITION

His Four-Game Total of 717 Takes Week's Top Spot.

Frank Putman rolled top four-games series in the twelfth weekly singles bowling classic held at the Marion Recreation Center Tuesday night. Hap Applegett hit the wire in second spot with 717 and Maynard Snyder, only local bowler to win the classic three weeks straight, finished third with a 710 series.

The classic, Marion's lone competitive summer bowling event, was switched to the South Prospect street lanes this week as the Palace Recreation Center is undergoing off-season repairs. Floyd Messmore, new Marion Recreation manager, says the event will be held at his establishment next Tuesday also and possibly the following week, depending on progress of refinishing work at the Palace alleys.

A total of 16 keglers participated in Tuesday night's tourney. This was the biggest turnout since the classics began over 12 weeks ago.

Four-game series, other than the three high efforts, racked up Tuesday night included: Chapman 584, Gunder 613, Phillians 636, Van Horn 677, Anderson 664, Messmore 623, Barber 629, Petrich 685, Pinkerman 615, Cass 634, Maag 597, Jevas 579, and Johnson 580.

Week's Softball Games Dethrone Virden, Elevate Berridge As King of the Pitchers

BY CHARLES ELLIOTT

Monday's astonishing 7 to 6 slaying administered by St. Mary to the Epworth Methodists eliminated from the local softball scene the last pall club with a perfect season record.

It also brought about the ruining of a clean pitching slate made by Young Bob Virden of Epworth, up to Monday night the city's number one moundsman, on paper at least.

On the other hand, the unexpected outcome of that Sunday School league game brought into light Berridge, a young Irish hurler, who stands aloof from all other Marion softball underhanders with four wins and not a defeat.

At the half way point this season, fans thought that both Huber and Epworth would finish up with not a loss pinned on them. The Threshers had nabbed six straight games and practically annihilated every foe they faced during the first round. The same was said of the Methodists who sported a six won and no lost record, identical to that of Huber.

Upset by Cooler

The Threshers bore out the unblemished mark predicted for them during the first week of the second round. However, when Universal Cooler met the high-riding Hubermen on July 21, the Threshers were a bewildered band of softballers when the scoreboard read at the end of the game, 3 to 2 in favor of Universal.

After that upset, diamond followers looked to John Clark's Methodist as the last hope for an undefeated team. Epworth clicked effectively for the first three games during the second half of the church loop season and then, like the Threshers, experienced their Waterloo.

However, the manhandling the Saints gave to the Methodists proved much more startling than the Cooler defeat of the Threshers. Epworth had topped the Irish in three previous games this year. On the first night of Sunday School league play this year, behind the hurling of Jack Smart, Epworth took St. Mary, 6 to 2. On June 21, Virden was on the mound and with flawless support behind him and with a puzzling assortment of pitching tricks, Bob bested Tom Moran of St. Mary, 7 to 0. On July 12, again Virden, a nemesis to practically all Sunday School squads, slowed the Irish offensive machinery down to low-gear. The score was 7 to 0.

Real Upset

With this contradictory background and with the fact that Epworth had shoved across such mammoth totals as 31 and 24 runs against other Sunday School opponents, fans could not quite believe the result of Monday's tilt.

Virden was ousted from the select ranks of the undefeated by his arch rival, Berridge, Monday night. Bob had copped seven successive tilts before he ran full blast into the Irish steamroller. Berridge, although many fans did not realize it, was pressing Virden for sabbath twirling honors, as he had won three straight games without meeting up with Joe Loss before Monday night.

However, in view of the fact that Virden had hurled in twice as many games as Berridge and because he still ranks tops in matter of runs allowed, he is yet looked upon as the leading Sunday School pitcher. However, Berridge can still equal Virden for that honor if he pitches both of the Saint's remaining games and wins them.

There is no one close to Virden in the runs-permitted column. Sunday School followers have seen only 17 runs cross the plate when Bob has been flipping. This is an average of slightly more than two runs per game, a very low mark when you consider the skyline trend of softball scores in Marion this season.

Heads Shutout Dept.

High schooler Bob is also leading all city moundsmen in the shut-out department with five. Two of these blanks have been posted with only one hit for the opposition. He has been the only Sunday School pitcher to turn in a shut out game during the second half of the season. Tony Caprino of Coca-Cola in the Commercial league has been the only other flinger in the city to mold a no run victory. Caprino beat Commercial Steel 12 to 0 about three weeks ago in a game which went only for an abbreviated four and a half innings, the minimum required for a regulation game.

Harold "Fat" Millikan, only Industrial or Commercial pitcher who participated in more than four games to have no losses during the first round, was bounced by Universal Cooler when his Huber team was ousted from the unbeaten. "Fat" still is no mean hurler to reckon with when he is zipping them in from 45 feet. He has allowed only 21 runs for 11 games, an average of less than three runs against tough Industrial and Commercial foes.

Bill Everly has been a big boy during the second half of the season with four wins and no setbacks. This is ample proof that Bill has improved in every phase of moundwork during the second half for he won four and lost two during the first round. The Universal Cooler chucker has also been as stingy as a Scotchman

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 — Betcha never knew this—a collection of odd and unimportant items culled from sports history:

* * *

Fifth Wheel — Connie Mack's famous "$100,000" infield was composed of five men — Stuffy McInnis, Eddie Collins, Jack Barry and Home Run Baker (the four you've heard about) and Danny Murphy, who cost Connie about $500....Murphy arrived late for his first game with the A's on July 8, 1902, so Jud Castro played the first inning and got a hit....Then Murphy turned up and smacked six consecutive blows, so his late arrival cost him a chance to get his name into the record books with the all-time leaders.

Y's Guy — The fact that Wayne Johnson, who played 60 minutes of good football for Harvard against Yale last fall now is a Marine trainee and candidate for the Yale team reminds old-timers of the 1913 game between the Elis and the Johnnies .... F. J. O'Brien, Harvard end, scored a deliberate safety that day, thinking he was merely making a touchback....Harvard won, so it was only a gag when O'Brien's teammates voted to ward him his "Y."

* * *

Block Off the Old Chip—George Chip, who bossed the middleweight division in 1913-14, probably was the only champion who lost his title while serving as a substitute .... George's kid brother Joe had given an unknown named Al McCoy a licking but when a return bout was arranged in Brooklyn, Joe got hurt in training....The promoter thought it would be smart to get George to sub for his brother in a no-decision affair....At the bell, Chip swarmed all over McCoy; his first assault failed to put Al down and George stepped back to get his breath....As he relaxed a moment, a punch came from nowhere. The fight was all over in just 45 seconds and McCoy was the new champion.

It's a Gyp-See — Alex Robb of the Thoroughbred Racing association dug up the yarn about Gypsy Lee, who picked a Derby winner for an English nobleman some 75 years ago .... Gypsy wrote "Blew Gown" on the race program and sure enough Sir Joseph Hawley's Blue Gown won the Epsom Derby .... Peeved because the nobleman criticized her spelling, Gypsy Lee then prophesied that no horse whose name began with "W" would win the Derby as long as she lived — and none did....Gypsy Lee died in 1933 and next spring the Gypsies who gather on Derby Day really unloaded their pockets to bet on Windsor Lad, owned by the Maharajah of Rajpipla .... Of course the "W" horse won at odds better than 7 to 1.

INSURE WITH KETTE TO BE SURE

TEN MAY RANK AS 20-GAME WINNERS; ONLY 4 LAST YEAR

Rip Sewell Tops Current List of Performances with 17 Victories to Date.

By The Associated Press

The major leagues may be able to boast of 10 or more 20-game winning pitchers this year compared to only four in 1942.

Where only Mort Cooper, Johnny Beazley, Ernie Bonham and Tex Hughson were able to make the grade a year ago, five twirlers already seem certain of reaching the coveted 20-game goal with 10 others having better than an even chance.

Topped by the veteran 35-year-old Rip Sewell of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the National league claims four of the five twirlers virtually certain of winning 20 games. Sewell has won 17 and lost two. Cooper, Cardinal ace, has a record of 15-6. Elmer Riddle of Cincinnati, with 14-5, and Hi Bithorn, of the Cubs, with 13-8, round out the senior loop quartet.

Chandler Has Chance

Spud Chandler of the New York Yankees is the only American league pitcher within whistling distance of the charmed circle. He has won 13 and lost three.

Bonham, who won 21 for the Yankees last year, and Hughson, who was credited with 22 for the Boston Red Sox in 1942, each have a chance to repeat. Big Ernie has won 10 and lost five for the Yanks; Hughson has chalked up 11 wins against seven setbacks.

In the "maybe" class may be placed Ray Starr of Cincinnati, 10-8; Claude Passeau of the Cubs, 10-7; Oscar Judd of the Red Sox, 10-6; Alex Carrasquel and Early Wynn of Washington, 10-5 and 11-7, respectively; Jim Bagby and Al Smith of Cleveland, 11-10 and 10-3, respectively; Dizzy Trout of Detroit, 10-9; and Orval Grove of the White Sox, 10-1.

Outside Chances

Al Javery of the Boston Braves, Johnny Vander Meer of the Reds, Virgil Trucks of Detroit and Buck Newsom of the Browns have "outside" chances of hitting the 20-game mark. Each has won nine times.

Pittsburgh came up with four runs in the seventh inning to beat the Phillies, 6 to 2, in the only game played in both leagues yesterday.

The victory tightened the Pirates' grip on second place.

Bucky Walters Reds' Choice Against Cubs

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 — Bucky Walters, starting after his second 100 victories as a Cincinnati Red, is the pitcher today as the team opens a three-week tour against the Chicago Cubs.

Bucky also is after his seventh win of the current year, during which he has lost 11 for the worst season since he came here from the Phillies in 1938. Hiram Bithorn is the Cubs' choice to keep Bucky from improving it.

The Reds put on a twilight exhibition at nearby Fort Sheridan yesterday, downing the soldiers, 5 to 0. Ray Star, Jack Niemes and Joe Beggs held the fort to seven hits and the Reds took advantage of four walks and two errors in the fourth inning to score four of their runs.

Legion Junior Tourney Semi-Finals on Today

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 5—Cleveland and Cincinnati clash today in the Ohio American Legion junior baseball semi-finals for the right to meet Springfield in a title Friday.

The teams went into a three-way tie yesterday when Springfield upset Cleveland from its unbeaten position, 2 to 0. Each has suffered one defeat in the tourney which is being conducted on a two-losses-and-out basis.

In yesterday's contest, Springfield's ace pitcher, Henry Amato, bottled up the potential batting power of the Cleveland nine to keep his club in the running.

Aches and Pains Sharpen Talents of Moses, Appling

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 — If it's company that misery loves, Luke Appling, that veteran of aches and pains, now has it in none other than Wally Moses, his Chicago White Sox teammate.

The moans and groans of these two American League campaigners are becoming sweet music to Manager Jimmy Dykes although he peeks at the records which show.

That the 34 year old Appling has taken over the league leadership in batting with .331;

That Moses, going on 32 and in his ninth year in the majors, has become the big league's base stealing sensation, with a total of 33.

Moses, troubled recently by aching legs, told Dykes before Sunday's double header at Philadelphia, "My leg hurts, Jim, and I'm not feeling very good. Guess I won't try running today."

So he tripled, singled and stole one base in the first game, in the second he eliminated the temptation to steal by hitting a homer and a triple. But the next night he stole three bases.

"So I told that Moses to stay away from the ball park when he feels good," Dykes remarked afterward. "I don't want him playing for me unless he feels unhealthy . . . Like Appling."

Dykes long has listened to Appling's string of miseries which this season alone included, according to Luke, (A) torn stomach muscle, (B) pink eye, (C) violent headaches, (D) stomach disorder, (E) slight attack of flu, (F) minor and major bruises, welts, spike wounds.

Yet, come game time, Appling was ready for his customary shortstop chore.

Paul Sycks of General Excavator, who was a feared underhander in the first round, has declined in effectiveness during the second 50 per cent of the schedule. He was victorious three times in the first half and was bested only once. In the second round, however, he has been thwarted in every attempt to win a game and has been kayoed four times.

Following are the records of all city softball pitchers who have hurled at least one complete game this year and have been credited with at least one victory or one defeat. The runs allowed by earn is also listed. In the Industrial-Commercial league, both league and non-league contests are counted in the figures.

Three Ohio Soldiers Die in Jap Prisons

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 — The war department announced today it had obtained through the international Red Cross the names of three U. S. army men from Ohio who have died in Japanese prison camps.

They were: Pfc. John Jr. Kovach, Gypsum, O.; Pvt. John E. Robinette, Mansfield; Pvt. Ralph N. Taylor, Ironton.

District Softball Meet Set

Arrangements for Staging Tournament in Marion Made at Conference Wednesday Night; To Open Aug. 14.

The district softball tournament definitely will be held here this month. After the Marion softball commissioners turned down the proposal of sponsoring the tourney, T. H. McKenney, district commissioner of the state amateur softball association, went ahead and made plans to stage the tournament himself.

In a meeting last night at the Y.M.C.A. with some local softball officials interested in staging the district tournament in Marion this year, McKenney set up the whole foundation for the tournament around which will soon be built the entire district set up.

McKenney decided to set Aug. 14 as the opening day of the tournament and Sunday, Aug. 15, as the second tournament day. He tentatively set Aug. 22 as the closing day, barring inclement weather conditions. Other dates for tourney play as scheduled by the district commissioner were Aug. 17, 19 and 21.

No Conflict with Series

By scheduling the tourney in this way, he chose days on which the district event would not conflict with the local Little World Series, which will start Aug. 16.

He added that if district play could not be completed by Aug. 22 the final game would be moved to Aug. 24 or 25, but no later. The reason is that the state softball tournament will get under way on Aug. 27 and a rest of at least two days is advisable for softball teams.

Entry fee has been set at $5. This is the same amount which the softball commission agreed to charge before it dropped the plan of a commission-sponsored tournament.

Team entry deadline will be Aug. 10. Originally it was Aug. 7 as scheduled by the commission, However, under that plan, tourney play would have begun Aug. 12.

Drawings for first round games will take place on the night of Aug. 10, McKenney decided. Immediately following the pairings, notices of first round contests will be sent out to the tourney teams.

All teams that enter the tournament and which come up to state association standards will be awarded a membership in the association.

Basic Requirements

The two cardinal team requirements for the district tourney as stipulated by the state softball association rules, are as follows: That the team is strictly a softball team and has played at least five games prior to the tourney as such an outfit; Second, That the team is not a professional squad and that no individual players have ever in the past participated in pro baseball.

However, the five-game clause does not necessarily mean that the team must have engaged in five league contests before the tourney. McKenney says both league and independent teams are eligible to enter district competition.

In past tournaments softball officials have been confronted with numerous problems involving former professional players in the tourney. Many times, a few of these players slip by in tourney play without directors even being aware they have played pro ball. Whether more than one game will be played each night depends entirely on the number of team entries in the tournament, the district commissioner said. Also, the number of teams will determine if there will be need of more than one bracket in the tourney. If only six or eight teams enter it is probable that there will be only one bracket.

If one contest is played per night, Lincoln park undoubtedly will be the scene due to its larger seating capacity in comparison with McKinley and Garfield parks.

Probable Time Schedule

Time of all games, unless changed by a special ruling of Commissioner McKenney, will be 6:30 p. m. This has been the starting time of all city league games this season.

Already McKelley has received letters from four out-of-town teams that have signified their intention of entering the tournament. He also looks for at least two Marion squads to participate.

The tourney is open to all teams from Marion, Seneca, Crawford, Morrow, and Wyandot counties.

The winner of the district event will travel to Columbus Aug. 27 to take part in the state finals. Teams from the 16 Ohio districts included in the state softball association will play in the statewide event.

This district is known officially as number 12.

STANDARD OIL MANAGERS DISCUSS TIRE PROBLEM

District Meeting Held by Service Station Heads.

A round table discussion on caring for customers' tires was held by Standard Oil service station managers of the Marion division in a meeting at Hotel Harding yesterday in charge of E. L. Barnhart of Marion, assistant division manager.

General discussion of war conditions effecting operation of stations, with emphasis on tires, brought out the need to further the war effort by keeping cars rolling for war workers. The aim to impress station attendants with the necessity of watching customers' tires to see that they are properly inflated and of warning drivers when tires need recapping was stressed. Shortage of tires for the balance of this year was emphasized.

Representatives of stations in Marion, Mt. Gilead, Marysville, Delaware, Bucyrus, Kenton, Upper Sandusky, Tiffin and Fostoria were present.

Blood Plasma Saves Life of Hardin Co. Man

Special to The Star

KENTON, Aug. 5—Corporal Paul Riter, 22, now in a government hospital at Memphis, Tenn., told his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Riter of Mt. Victory, that his life had been saved by six pints of blood plasma and a blood transfusion from an Army nurse, off duty at the time.

The young man, wounded when fellow members of an anti-aircraft gun crew were killed March 23rd in North Africa, said he lost one-half of his blood through wounds on head, legs, hips and face before he was rescued by a member of the medical corps and rushed to a hospital. One of the wounds was a cut over the eye inflicted by a piece of the rib of one of his buddies, he wrote.

OATS UP BUT OTHER GRAINS LISTLESS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 — A good demand for oats, which advanced to within 2 cents of seasonal peaks, featured an otherwise listless trade in grains today. In view of the rapidly-breaking war developments, many traders took to the sidelines and activity was light.

Strength in oats was based upon a strong cash demand for this grain and a private crop forecast showing a smaller upturn in estimated corn production than many traders had anticipated. However, the forecast was made as of Aug. 1 and important areas received needed rains after that date.

BUYING POWER FEEBLE TODAY

Market Volume Low; Most Issues Drop from Levels Reached Wednesday.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—Buying power was feeble in today's stock market and most leaders fell back a little from the levels established on yesterday's recovery. Volume was low from the start.

In lower ground a good part of the time were U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, DuPont, Standard Oil (N. J.), Texas Co., and Southern Railway.

The speculative structure looked better to some analysts in light of the rally yesterday and the day before after the severest decline since the market started upward 15 months ago.

One commentator suggested this recovery in the face of excellent war news seemed to confirm the idea that last week's break was mainly the result of an overbought condition an da sudden rush to take profits on the good news of Mussolini's downfall.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"GOOD!" Dicky approved. "I don't think there's a chance of your having to use it, but if you do, don't have any qualms about that pole cat."

"I shan't hesitate if I see she's dangerous," I told him. "And now I must be getting back."

I found Ruth Hayes still standing in her doorway, her face like the proverbial thunder cloud. "You weren't so worried about your precious rooms on the other side when the man next door called!" she said tauntingly.

Has Her Orders

"I have my orders, Madam," I said meekly, "to drop everything and run when he calls. He's sick, and he's a special friend of the manager's, and he never keeps me long, and—"

"Will you stop that chatter and get in here?" she demanded furiously, stepping back into her room, and with something of the sensation of seeing the jaws of a trap close, I followed her inside.

"How many rooms do you have to care for?" she began.

"I have this wing, Madam," I said. "Eighteen rooms."

"Are they all filled?"

An Off Day

"No, Madam. Not today. This is an off day. I only have my regulars, and a few others, yourself, the sick man next door and three others."

"Do your regulars come back before night?"

"Very seldom, Madam. Sometimes they come in for luncheon, but not very often. But I have to have their rooms done before noon so if they should come in they'd find them ready."

"You needn't fidget," she snapped. "I'm pretty nearly through with you. Who are these three others? Transients?"

"Yes, Madam," I replied.

"Men or women?"

"All three men."

"Are they in their rooms now?"

"Yes, Madam. They've got 'Do not disturb' signs on their doors. They came in together last night, had dinner together downstairs and went out."

"Sleeping it off, I suppose," she commented.

"I wouldn't know, Madam," I said demurely.

"Don't be impertinent!" she stormed. "or I'll report you. Now let me get this straight. There is no other woman on the floor except me."

"No, Madam."

"Well, if another one should check in, I want to know about it at once. Come straight to me and tell me. Do you hear?"

"Oh, Madam!" I registered consternation. "I wouldn't be allowed to do that without the housekeeper's permission."

"You abysmal idiot!" she said. "Here! Will this change your mind?"

Offers a Bribe

She whirled, snatched up her purse, opened it, and thrust a $10 bill into my hands.

I handed it back to her, and when she would not take it let it drop to the floor.

"I'm not that kind, Madam," I said with dignity. "Anything I can tell you without disobeying rules, I'll do. But I won't be taking a bribe from anybody."

"Regular plaster saint, aren't you?" she sneered. "And yet you're afraid to look anybody in the eyes! That's a sure sign you've got something somewhere to be ashamed of. Now you look me straight in the eyes and answer me one more question, and you may go."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Hearing Aids

When the victim of deafness first becomes aware of his condition, he goes through various psychological experiences. One of these is that he reads about hearing aids and even if he doesn't like the idea of wearing a device on his head, he hasn't the slightest doubt that he can find one that will suit his case perfectly and allow him full hearing.

It is when he gets it that his first disillusionment is likely to occur. I think it is too bad that the deafness victim pins so much hope on these hearing aids because the final disappointment is proportionately hard to bear.

A study made by Drs. Senturia, Silverman and Harrison in St. Louis took 30 patients with different forms of deafness and tried them on all known kinds of hearing aids. Seventeen did not hear any better, or so little better as to make the use of the instrument valueless.

In efforts made to relieve chronic deafness I am not overlooking the possibility of the operation devised a year or so ago by Dr. Julius Lempert of New York. That has had a remarkable record of success in properly selected cases. But again it is not a cure-all for all kinds of deafness, as the men who are doing the operation will be the first to tell you.

Another experience that people who are becoming gradually deaf go through is that they think they are going to get better. They can't believe it is going to happen to them. There must be a cure somewhere, in this modern age of miracles. It is, of course, on the surface a shame to take the hope away from them.

But it is kindness in the long run, because they miss the golden opportunity of learning the one thing that will be the greatest comfort to them in the future—lip reading. They stand a much better chance to learn it while they still have some hearing left, but how many of them that you know even tried?

Types of Hearing Aids

To go back to hearing aids—it was found at the Central Institute for the Deaf at St. Louis that different aids might prove best for different people. In other words, there is no one kind of hearing aid that is "best." The kinds of deafness were classified as three: (1) middle ear, or conduction deafness; this is the most numerous group; the deafness is due to slowly growing adhesions in the middle ear which prevent the movements of the ear drum getting to the nerve of hearing; (2) nerve deafness in which the nerve of the organ of hearing slowly degenerates, and (3) mixed forms.

The first type is the most favorable for hearing aids, the second the least. Sometimes one kind of instrument worked better, sometimes the other. Bone conduction aids, for instance, are not necessarily better than air conduction aids. In general, the bone conduction instruments worked better in conduction deafness, the air conduction instrument in perception deafness.

In any case the maximum improvement is obtained only after considerable trial by the patient, and training with the help of a lip reading teacher.

The Stars Say—

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, Aug. 6

WITH SUCH a breathtaking and thrilling chain of planetary configurations, almost any extravagance of prediction might be happily discounted. Events, adventures and situations unpredictable, and unprecedented are probable. While there is sign of skyrocket and explosive precipitancy there are also sound and logical auguries and justifications. All in all it is a time for reaching for the highest goals, with all the acumen and skill possible, but there should be sound, safe and sane preparation should a dramatic windfall suddenly materialize. Financial success, promotion, public acclaim, romance and adventure in all phases of human life are likely to eventuate. Accept what the planetary gods send with balance as well as gratitude.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a memorable year of dramatic, thrilling and possibly unprecedented adventures, romances and experiences out of the ordinary or unexpected. Promotion, honors, favors, publicity, social or professional fulfillments, sustained by the solid values of increased credit, financial expansion, and many objective realizations. These should be sought for with efficiency, skill, talent and the utilization of personality, charm and power.

A child born on this day may be exceptionally fitted for the attainment of high place and power in life, through its own worldly equipment as well as by its innate qualities of mind and temperament.

Ohio Poultry Output Shows 14 Per Cent Gain

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 4—Ohio farms produced approximately 33,631,000 chickens this year, an increase of 14 per cent over the number produced in the spring of 1942, the federal-state crop reporting service announced today.

The state ranks eighth among the states in the number of young chickens produced in 1943, the service said.

KIWANIS CLUB WATCH DRIVE GETTING RESULTS

More Needed as Contribution To Russian Army.

Since the last appeal was made by heads of the Kiwanis club watch drive a number of watches have been received, according to a report from one of the chairmen today. The watches are for use by the Russian army.

A few of the time pieces were beyond repair but it was estimated that approximately a third of the watches turned in could be put in working order.

Last week a watch in perfect condition was turned in by a family who explained that the owner had died recently and the watch could do a much better job if it were placed "in service" than it could lying idle.

Watches, any make or model, may be left at the office of J. D. Torrence, 126½ West Center street. Names and addresses of the contributor should accompany the watches so that they may be returned if not suitable for use.

Ten million pounds of cod fillets were produced in Newfoundland last year, valued at more than $1,000,000.
